WPA TO CUT 2,600 JOBS IN FULTON AS COUNTY STOPS AID

U. S. Share in $137,000
Pay Roll To Be Shifted
Elsewhere in Georgia,
Miss Shepperson Says.

'Approximately 2,600 Atlanta relief workers now building Fulton county roads will be put on the unemployed lists within the next 10 days, Miss Gay B. Shepperson, state WPA administrator, announced yesterday.

Action was decided on after Fulton county commissioners notified the state WPA office last Thursday they would no longer furnish their monthly sponsoring contribution of $15,000.

There is little chance of the dismissed workers being absorbed by booming textile mills and heavy industry in Atlanta, said Miss Shepperson, pointing out that approximately 80 per cent of all relief clients are unskilled. There are no blocs of steel, textile or any other type of skilled workers on Georgia relief rolls.

Boom Only Hope.
Only chance of lightening local relief loads, she said, is a business boom that would place any type of able-bodied worker at a premium.

In connection with the release of workers on the road building projects, Miss Shepperson said it was impossible under existing regulations for WPA to carry on the work alone. The 2,600 jobs, she said, will be distributed over other sections of the state where sponsoring agencies have money ready to begin work on new projects.

A survey of all Fulton county projects, she remarked, showed they were fully manned and incapable of absorbing the 2,600 road workers. There were 7,358 relief workers in the county last Wednesday.

The dismissal of the project workers, WPA office statisticians estimated, will mean a monthly salary loss of approximately $137,000.

Under WPA set-up, relief work is financed jointly by the federal agency and a sponsoring body. Average sponsor's contribution in Georgia this year was 20 per cent.

Former Presidential Candidate and Titular Head of Republicans Calls on His Leaders To Remove Barriers to Two-Party Development in South.

By RALPH MCGILL.
(Copyright, 1939, by The Atlanta Constitution.)

WASHINGTON, D. C., Sept. 22. Alfred M. Landon, former presidential nominee of the Republican party and the titular head of that party, today put himself squarely on record against the practice of Republicans in weighing down the southern delegations to Republican national conventions with negro delegates.

He called on his party leaders, nationally and in the south, to rid themselves of the old conditions which fatally had prevented the building up of any Republican strength and the two-party system in the south, and to send to the convention a new type delegation.

So far as is known this is the first time any Republican occupying a position as titular head of the party or a past nominee has been so bold as to say openly what all Republicans have said privately. Buying and selling of southern Republican delegations has provided many a convention with its scandal.

Governor Landon is not, of course, anti-negro. He was saying what the real negro civic leaders in the south know only too well; that with but few exceptions the southern delegations to the Republican national convention have not been representative of the best elements of their own race and contributed nothing at all to the advancement of the party in the south and much to its practical suppression.

It is safe to say that outside of the border states where there exists the two-party system, the Republican party has never made an organized appeal to the better elements of the citizenship of the south, white or colored.

"The real trouble with the Republican party in the south was not the Civil War," said Governor Landon. "Nor was it the tragic period of reconstruction. The trouble was the fatal error of the Republican party in believing that it paid off its obligations to the negroes of the north by appointing negro delegates to the convention from the southern states. It did things in the south which would have caused trouble in the east."

"A two-party system would be the finest thing which could happen to the south."

Heartily Indorse Speech

Georgia political and business leaders, notably former Governor Talmadge, generally were loud in their praise yesterday of President Roosevelt's speech calling for the revision of the arms embargo act in an effort to keep America out of war.

Although many business and professional leaders declined to be quoted they declared privately that they approved the President's views and that congress should revise the neutrality act.

Former Governor Talmadge, once the President's severest critic in the state, was unequivocal in his praise of the message to congress.

College Presidents Recall,
However, That Civilization
Survived Others.

By HERMAN HANCOCK.

Dr. Earnest A. Hooton, Harvard University anthropologist and author of "Twilight of Man," is a splendid gentleman and a scholar, but when he predicted the downfall of civilization as the result of war he simply followed the ideas expressed by the late President David Starr Jordan, of Leland Stanford University, who said about the same thing about the War Between the States.

That in substance appeared yesterday to be the reaction of college presidents and officials attending the annual meeting of the executive board of the Southeastern Conference of Colleges in Atlanta.

Dr. Hooton had made the statement in Boston that the unfit, deformed and insane are left at home (during wars) to continue propagation of a race of imbeciles.

Citing the recent Spanish War he said:

"In that war you have a perfect picture of civilization striving to destroy the best of its biological elements."

ALLIED SUPREME COUNCIL OF WAR CONFERS ON ARMS

Toss-Up Whether French or Germans Will Strike
First Heavy Blow as Both Rush Preparations

By TAYLOR HENRY.

PARIS, Sept. 22.—(AP)—A major offensive appeared imminent on the western front tonight.

It apparently was a toss-up, however, whether it would be the French or Germans to strike the first blow.

All political signs pointed to the French; military advices seemed to indicate it would be the Germans who would take the initiative.

In the most dramatic developments since the war started, Premier Daladier with General Maurice Gustave Gamelin, commander-in-chief of French and British armies; Admiral Jean Darlan, chief of the French navy staff, and Minister of Armament Raoul Dautry flew to England for two urgent conferences of the Allied supreme war council on production of arms and ammunition.

Co-ordinate on Arms.

The fact that a communique, issued at Daladier's office after he returned from the meeting, concerned co-ordinated French and British arms production led to the belief the Allies were getting ready for an offensive in which large amounts of arms and ammunition would be needed.

At the same time, reported activity just north of Basel, Switzerland, where the borders of Germany, France and Switzerland join, spotlighted a new sector on the western front. Observers said there were heavy troop movements along the Rhine frontier, a front which has been fairly inactive since the French shelled it in the opening day of the war.

Flights Begin Over France.

With the reinforcement of German air squadrons on the western front, flights began over France again. An alarm was sounded tonight at the northern industrial city of Lille but the "all clear" signal was given a half-hour later without Nazi planes appearing.

During the evening the French government told the nation officially in a broadcast by Commissioner of Information Jean Girardoux that "the first phase of the war is ended" and Germany faces "a war of which it has lost command."

The broadcast strengthened the belief the French were ready to press their initial advantage which

NAZI U-BOAT RADIO CALLS PICKED UP, NAVY IS INFORMED

Submarines Sighted Off
Boston, Southern Alaska;
Craft Identity Not Disclosed by President.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 22.

(AP)—A flat statement by President Roosevelt that foreign submarines had been seen off Boston and off southern Alaska presented the latest mystery today in a war marked by surprises and enigmas.

While he did not name the nationality of the submarines, the President's words immediately raised the question whether Germany had dispatched undersea craft to strike at Allied shipping close to American shores.

On the Pacific coast the Aberdeen, Wash., World said it had reliable information that radio calls identified as those of a German u-boat had been picked up and that the United States navy had been informed of this fact. The radio signals indicated, the paper added, that the submersible was trying to reach the German freighter Portland, which had vanished from Puget Sound a short time before.

Source Undisclosed.

Beyond saying that the submarines were sighted by ships at sea, Mr. Roosevelt did not disclose the source of his information. Asked about the neutrality of the craft, he laughed and said they might be Swiss, Bolivian or Afghan. Some persons wondered whether they might be Canadian, but at Ottawa Canadian officials ruled this out by stating that the Canadian navy had no submarines.

Mr. Roosevelt said one submarine was sighted off the southern boundary of Alaska, where it joins Canadian territory and the other 50 to 70 miles from the southern tip of Nova Scotia, half way between there and Nantucket shoals.

Germany, like other powers, has submarine capable of crossing the Atlantic. Available figures show, for example, that last year the Reich had a known total of 21 medium-sized submarines of 500 tons each. While "Jane's fighting ships" reference book on warcraft, does not give the cruising range of these particular vessels, a French submarine of about the same tonnage can go 3,000 miles at 10 knots without refuelling. In addition Germany has other submarines of various types, some of which may have much longer range.

However, even the longest range German submarine would be unable to carry out lengthy operations.

WRITE PROVISION TO LIMIT POWERS OF THE PRESIDENT

American Ships Would Be Forbidden to Carry Any Goods to Belligerents as a Sop to Opposition.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 22. (AP)—Administration forces in the senate decided today to write into the new neutrality bill a strict provision preventing American ships from carrying goods of any kind to belligerents.

This decision, regarded by some senators as likely to win support for the measure from legislators who have indicated unwillingness to grant discretionary power to President Roosevelt, was disclosed by Senator Pittman, Democrat, Nevada, chairman of the foreign relations committee.

He made this announcement as he, Senator Connally, Democrat, Texas, and Senator Thomas, Democrat, Utah, set about converting the administration program, with its repeal of the arms embargo, into bill form for presentation to the committee on Monday.

Foes Discuss Strategy.

Meanwhile, opponents of repeal held a strategy meeting, attended by former Governor Philip LaFollette, of Wisconsin. The opposition group was discussing a project for establishing a national committee to support their stand among the people. Names mentioned in that connection included LaFollette, Henry Ford, Herbert Hoover, Colonel Charles A. Lindbergh and Eddie Rickenbacker, World War ace.

Pittman said his restriction on American shipping had added a seventh point to the six-point program enunciated yesterday by President Roosevelt. One of the President's points was a proposed restriction forbidding American vessels to enter combat areas, to be delineated by the State Department and the chief executive.

However, put in the form which Pittman has in mind, the provision held possibilities of lessening the senate opposition to the administration bill. A number of senators are known to be deeply opposed to giving the President the discretionary power to decide what the danger zones are.

REICH, RUSSIA SET DEMARICATION LINE

Accord Gives Three-Fifths of Poland as Occupation
Zone for Red Army.

By MELVIN K. WHITELEATHER.

BERLIN, Sept. 22.—(P)—A German-Russian agreement today gave Soviet Russia approximately three-fifths of Poland as the zone of occupation for her troops, leaving two-fifths for Nazi soldiers.

It was pointed out, however, that the demarcation line did not necessarily mark the future boundaries which still are the subject of diplomatic negotiations in Moscow.

The line announced runs from the point where the Pissa river crosses the Polish-East Prussian border in the north on down along the Pissa to the Narew; along the Narew to the River Bug; along the Bug to the Vistula, northwest of Warsaw; southward along the Vistula at the eastern edge of Warsaw to the San river, and along the San to the Polish-Hungarian border somewhat east of the junction of the Slovak-Hungarian-Polish boundaries.

Reds Reach Hungarian Border.

(A dispatch from Koros-nezo, Hungary, said Soviet Russian troops reached the Polish-Hungarian frontier at sunset Friday and took up positions along nearly 90 miles of Hungarian border on a line to Beskid, which German troops reached Thursday.)

At the greatest depth, the Russian zone of occupation stretched west into Poland from the Soviet Russian border for a distance of more than 250 miles.

German troops in some places already have penetrated into Polish territory now marked out for Russian occupation and will be withdrawn.

Warsaw, still holding out against Nazi forces, was placed in the German zone; the cities of Lublin, Luck, Lwow, Brezesc (Brest-Litovsk), Bialystok and Wilno (Vilna), ancient Lithuanian capital) were assigned to Russian occupation.

Albert Canal Flooded in Precautionary Step 'To Protect Antwerp.'

BRUSSELS, Sept. 22.—(P)—

Belgium's defense minister, Lieutenant General Henri Denis, tonight announced the opening of the Albert canal dykes.

The announcement said the action was a precautionary step to "protect Antwerp by artificial inundation" but failed to elaborate further.

The Albert canal is the backbone of Belgium's three-line ring of defense works whose key city is the fortified city of Liege.

Belgium, overrun by the Germans in the first World War, built her defenses to avoid a repetition of that experience.

Military men say the Albert canal, the Liege fortification system and the defense works extending to the northeast give the country a chance of holding back any invasion.

It is difficult to understand, from the point of view of Germany's national interests, how the new situation created by Russia's expansion in central Europe can have been deemed preferable by Hitler to existence of an independent Poland.

Now Hitler is compelled savagely to assault the western front. Once he has failed against the western democracies, Germany's disaster will be much worse than in 1918, as she will have to reckon in eastern Europe with a powerful Russia instead of a defeated one. Germanism then may be uprooted from the Danubian and sub-Danubian areas.

Members of the ring, it was said, tunneled drugs and other contraband into the prison through the aid of civilian employees at the institution.

SECRET JURY BODY RECALLS LONGINOS IN PARK DEAL QUIZ

Ex-Commissioner Says Politicians Trying To Besmirch Him; Gullatt Asks Immediate Trial.

George F. Longino, former county commissioner, his father and sister-in-law and four other witnesses have again been summoned to appear before a secret grand jury committee investigating the county purchase of Dixie Lakes park at 10 o'clock Monday morning, it was learned yesterday.

Calling of these witnesses indicated that the committee will go deep into the sale of the park property by Homer Gullatt, tax assessor, to the county in 1937.

Gullatt is under indictment on a charge of defrauding the county in the deal and yesterday filed a petition with the superior court demanding an immediate trial.

Maid Is Tied To Crime by Bits of String

Pieces of string, no longer than half an inch, figured importantly in the conviction of a negro woman on theft charges yesterday in Fulton criminal court.

They were tied around knives, which Mrs. W. S. McIntosh, of East Point, said she had lent to a neighbor for a church gathering. The knives were returned to the McIntosh residence but disappeared. Police said they found them, other silver and some McIntosh clothing in the home of Tommie Lou Bohannon, who had worked for Mrs. McIntosh as maid. The strings Mrs. McIntosh had tied around the knives to identify them at the social circle also identified them in the court room.

Judge Jesse Wood sentenced Tommie Lou to pay $50 or serve six months.

H. Longino, president of the Fairburn Banking Company; his sister-in-law, Mrs. Y. H. Longino, whose husband is vice president of the Fairburn bank; Mrs. Mabel Abbott MacNeill, county treasurer; Frank R. Fling, clerk of the county commission; J. H. Elliott, former county tax assessor, and E. T. Nolan, Fairburn businessman.

The Longinos were subpoenaed before the committee Thursday afternoon but only the former county commissioner testified.

He said he denied to the jury-men that he or his bank received any of the $7,400 that the county paid Gullatt for the Dixie Lakes property, and yesterday he added he told the jurors that "crooked politics" was responsible for linking his name with the deal.

Charges Smear Attempt. He charged the "crooked politicians" with attempting to besmirch him with rumors about the deal.

Longino was the commissioner who in 1937 made the motion to buy the land from Gullatt.

It was understood that the grand jurors are to spend most of Monday examining the seven witnesses and studying the records of the Bank of Fulton County, the Fairburn Banking Company and of the county concerning the purchase.

Just shovel on a little more coal, D. J. Fant Jr., of 1947 Beecher street, S. W., waves a cheery farewell at Terminal station as he starts out for Greenville, S. C., on the run which yesterday afternoon brought to a close 52 years as an engineer with the Southern railway. Mr. Fant, who combines preaching with railroading, was the guest of honor at a celebration in Greenville last night, residents of that city paying their respects both on the occasion of his retirement and his seventy-first birthday, which will be observed here today. Mr. Fant plans to continue as a lay preacher, and will attend services at the Atlanta Gospel Tabernacle tomorrow morning, where a sermon will be preached by his son, the Rev. D. J. ## RUMORS OF RIFT DENIED BY HUIET

'No Controversy Over Personnel,' Labor Commissioner Asserts.

Commissioner of Labor Ben T. Huie yesterday denied published reports of a new quarrel between himself and Governor Rivers over personnel in his department. The reports said Huie had threatened retaliation against Rivers for allegedly striking Marion Williamson from Huie's federal budget. Williamson is an appeals referee. He was officially reported as on the job yesterday.

"I have had no notification that the Governor struck Mr. Williamson from the pay roll," Commissioner Huie said. "As far as I know there is no controversy over personnel."

The Governor was out of the state and could not be reached for comment. It was understood that he had seen Huie's federal budget now in Washington for approval but whether or not he requested the federal government to drop Williamson could not be learned.

Further indication no feud is pending came with Huie's announcement that he is leaving tonight to attend the American Legion convention in Chicago next week, spending his vacation there and that later he will attend a four-day labor department conference at Indianapolis. He said he would return to Atlanta October 7.

ing until next Tuesday. Ward, meanwhile, was freed under temporary bond of $1,000.

Echols said that the agents of the FBI had accused Ward of bringing the amyl into the prison and turning it over to two prisoners named Miller and Allen. The prisoners were assigned to help Ward in the upkeep of the prison electrical system. Miller and Allen were said to be among the prisoners sent to the "hole."

The earlier arrests in the investigation were those of Dr. R. B. Ranney, of Armstrong, Iowa, and Raymond Gregg, of New Orleans.

Dental Aide Given Year. Dr. Ranney, an assistant in the dental clinic was arrested as he entered the prison through the main gate to report for duty. The young dental assistant pleaded guilty to smuggling a letter into the institution and was sentenced by Judge E. Marvin Underwood to serve a year and a day in the federal reformatory at Chillicothe, Ohio. What the letter contained was not brought out by the FBI. The letter itself was held to be contraband.

No details concerning the charges against Gregg have been made public. Gregg, who left his job at the prison several months ago, was arrested early this week at Newark, N. J.

Ward Is War Veteran. Ward, the third "outsider" arrested, had been employed at the prison only a few months. He is a disabled World War veteran and for many years was electrician for a downtown office building.

Unconfirmed reports said that Warden Sanford and other prison officials have been keeping an extra close watch on incoming mail and packages for several months. In one instance it was reported a small cache of dope was found in the hollowed wooden heel of a pair of bedroom slippers sent to an inmate while in another case a "shot" of cocaine was found under a stamp on a letter sent into the prison through regular channels.

Mrs. Fuller was a life-long resident of Atlanta, the daughter of the late John T. and Sarah Dent Meador, pioneer citizens. She was educated at Girls' High school and at a finishing academy in Abingdon, Va.

She was a sister of the late Thomas Dent Meador Sr., vice president of the old Lowry National Bank, and of the late Charles D. Meador, for many years tax assessor of Atlanta. She was a charter member of the old Ponce de Leon Baptist church and a member of Second-Ponce de Leon Baptist church.

available way to stay out of war—and at the same time to make a nice piece of money.

Yet they have grave misgivings about each of these pleasant possibilities. It is easy to sense a defeatist attitude concerning America's ability to stay out of a prolonged world war, and there is serious doubt as to the lasting value of money made from war. It is a fatalist attitude rather than a cynical one.

Third Element. A third element injects itself forcibly into this picture—a resentment against Hitler that even in this Montana-Wyoming land, 6,000 miles away from Berlin, amounts to a bitter personal hate. In some quarters this already assumes little sort of the magnitude of hysteria. Certainly it is a grim determination that "this madman must be stopped."

A Montana cowman put it to me in these words: "Hitler has to be roped and branded. If we don't throw in with England and France, we'll have to do the job ourselves after they're defeated. I think Roosevelt is absolutely right about wanting to change our neutrality law. I've always been opposed to him, but I'm behind him now." This cattleman's views about America actually going into a war were far more pronounced than those of nine out of ten westerners. The vast majority out here express an ardent hope for peace, but fail to hide their defeatist pessimism.

Little Boom.

Everywhere one runs into clear-cut evidences of the war's little boom. In the two weeks that the war has been on sheep men have seen their wool "clips" advance from 17 cents a pound to more than 30 cents. Cattle prices have made substantial advances. Wheat has jumped 20 cents. Mining properties are booming, and everything that has war value is starting to climb.

Dr. Foster and Dr. Brittain failed to agree that morons use the destructive weapons, but added "man's search for power may well mean the destruction of civilization as we know it."

Dr. Hooton's ideas briefly sketched are:

"We must build the future of humanity, if there is to be any future, not upon mechanical science, but upon man's biology about which we know virtually nothing. I see no need to declare a moratorium upon mechanical endeavor until man catches up."

In answer, Dr. Brittain replied: "It seems that Dr. Hooton's line of thought closely parallels that expressed by Dr. Jordan. It is practically the same thought, although Dr. Hooton seems to contradict himself when he says the destructive devices were invented for the use of a 'billion and a half morons.' If we are to accept his first premise that the fit go to war, then they can not be morons."

"I do not quite grasp what Dr. Hooton is driving at, but if he favors sending only the old men to war, I agree with him. We should not send any man to fight unless he is 45 years old. That would correct the condition about which Dr. Hooton seems to be complaining."

Dr. Foster agreed with Dr. Brittain, adding "It may well be that man has built or will soon build a Frankenstein which will ultimately destroy civilization as we know it."

Both Dr. Foster and Dr. Brittain laid to the ban, effects of war the fact that the English Tommy and the French Poilus of today are less perfect specimens of manhood than formerly.

"It appears to be the aftermath of the war," they asserted.

Don't Forget to Turn Clock Back Tonight

Before you go to bed tonight, don't forget to turn back the clock, for at 2 o'clock tomorrow morning Atlanta reverts to central standard time. Pretty Mrs. Charles Molton shows Atlantans how it is done in case they have forgotten since they advanced the hands of their clocks last April 30, when daylight saving time went into effect. It's an hour's more sleep for those who remember, and confusion for those who don't.

Here Is What You Must Do To Be 'Drunk'

The Georgia court of appeals held yesterday public drunkenness to warrant conviction must be manifested by one of these signs: "Boisterousness; indecent condition or action; vulgar, profane or unbecoming language or loud and violent discourse."

A decision reversing a Whitfield county superior court conviction of Henry Plemons on a charge of public drunkenness said the state failed to prove Plemons manifested any of the specified signs of intoxication.

'BRITISH SCARED,' ATHENS GIRL SAYS

'Many Dislike Government Almost as Much as Hitler'—Roberta Hodgson.

By GLADSTONE WILLIAMS.
Staff Correspondent.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 22.—With London plagued by blackouts, dogouts, and the fadeout of millions of her children, the British are the most confused and unhappy people in the world, according to Miss Roberta Hodgson, political science and international law expert, of Athens, Ga., who arrived here for several days stay from Glasgow today.

Accompanied on her voyage by Miss Barbara Jenkins, daughter of Dr. Jenkins, economics professor at the University of Georgia, and Edith Hodgson, daughter of Professor Hugh Hodgson, of the same university, Miss Roberta Hodgson called on Representative Paul Brown, of the tenth Georgia congressional district, to relate her war experiences and plead for his active co-operation in keeping America out of the "continental mess."

"There is not a person in England, with whom I talked," Miss Roberta said, "who does not feel the United States will join the Allies in their war against Germany. And, furthermore, the British feel they are through unless America does join the Allies."

"Britishers don't want war any more than Americans do. I talked with hundreds of people, a great many of them in uniforms, who dislike their own warlike government almost as much as they do the Third Reich of Hitler. Let America mistake the true British temperament. The man in the street is deathly afraid of war. Inwardly they feel that death is near, especially if Hitler sends his air armada over London. When I left London, they were all scared stiff."

U. S. FARM INCOME GAINS IN AUGUST

Cash Advance Over July Is 13 Per Cent.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 22.—(AP)—The Agriculture Department estimated today the August cash income of American farmers was 13 per cent greater than that of July.

The August total was estimated at $643,000,000, including $601,000,000 from farm marketings and $42,000,000 in government benefit payments. July's total income was $570,000,000, and that of August, last year, $628,000,000.

The department estimated the farm cash income for the January-August period of this year at $4,594,000,000 compared with $4,612,000,000 for the like period last year. Government benefit payments for this period totaled $492,000,000, compared with $308,000,000 last year.

SALVATION ARMY STAFF CHIEF DIES

John McMillan Served Organization 50 Years; Succumbs in London.

LONDON, Sept. 22.—(AP)—Commissioner John McMillan, chief of staff of the Salvation Army, died today after a long illness.

He started his Salvation Army career in Canada 50 years ago and was named commissioner May 1, 1937. McMillan also served in the United States, Australia and the United Kingdom.

He was placed in charge of the Salvation Army's central territory in the United States, with headquarters in Chicago, in 1926 and was moved to New York City four years later to command the eastern territory. He was transferred to Canada in 1934 and later to England.

McMillan was 66 years old. His daughter, Christine, an adjutant in the Salvation Army, was with him at the time of his death. Another daughter, Marita, resides in Chicago.

Other survivors include four brothers, Donald, of New York, chief secretary of the army's eastern territory; Norman, of Montreal, assistant to the president of the Canadian Pacific railroad; William, of Montreal, and Alex, of Toronto.

ELK'S TOOTH, FRAT PIN STOLEN HERE

ROOSEVELT DEPARTS FOR HYDE PARK HOME

WASHINGTON, Sept. 22.—(AP)—President Roosevelt departed by special train this evening for his home at Hyde Park, there to spend the week end with his 85-year-old mother and, somewhat tardily, celebrate her birthday.

The President's mother, Mrs. Sara Delano Roosevelt, observed the anniversary yesterday, but her son remained in the capital to deliver a neutrality message to congress and confer with legislative leaders.

THREAT OF JENKINS RELATED BY HORTON

Accused Man Takes Stand in Own Defense in Putnam Trial.

EATONTON, Ga., Sept. 22.—(AP)—County Commissioner N. D. Horton pleaded his case for 25 minutes this afternoon before a jury trying him on a murder charge in the death of R. C. Jenkins, Eatonton attorney.

Telling in graphic detail of a meeting with Jenkins on the day he was shot to death in July, 1938, Horton declared in an unsworn statement permitted by Georgia law:

"I told him, 'Don't get out of that car or I'll shoot you.' He came out and I shot him. I didn't want to kill. I didn't want him to suffer."

Horton asserted he was armed at the time because he carried a gun for protection after being crippled in an automobile accident and because on that specific day he planned to make a trip to Sandersville.

Reason He Had Gun.

"That is the reason I had my gun in my pocket," Horton said. "Bob (Jenkins) stopped and I said, 'I'm glad you stopped. I want to see if we can get rid of that execution so I can make good title to a lot I sold. . . . Bob said, 'We can get that straightened out all right,' and he hit me."

It was then, the commissioner said, that Jenkins ignored the request not to leave his motor car and the fatal shooting followed.

"I didn't pick a place to shoot him," Horton asserted. "I had no time to get mad."

Jenkins' widow testified earlier the slain man, in a dying statement, declared Horton "put the gun in my belly and shot."

Doctor Testifies.

Testifying for the defense, Dr. Richard Binion, of Milledgeville, said that about 15 minutes before the reported dying declaration was made, Jenkins was not in condition to make a clear statement.

The physician's testimony was disputed by Mrs. Willie Bailey, Milledgeville nurse and rebuttal witness. Mrs. Bailey said Jenkins' mind apparently was thoroughly clear at the time the attorney's dying statement was said to have been made.

Orris Knight, a defense witness, testified Jenkins struck at Horton with a screwdriver after saying he would "fix the execution, all right."

Attorneys are expected to begin their arguments Saturday morning.

30-DAY SICK LEAVE FOR POLICEMEN VETOED BY MAYOR

Also Disapproves Bills Expanding Planning Commission Authority and on Property Purchase.

Mayor Hartsfield yesterday vetoed three measures passed to him from Monday's meeting of council and the aldermanic board.

He disapproved a 30-day sick leave with pay for every one of the city's 400 policemen each year. Police Chief M. A. Hornsby advised the mayor the policemen now get 20 days vacation and six legal holidays. He expressed apprehension that some of the officers would use the 30 days whether or not they were needed.

The second measure disapproved was championed by members of the fifth and sixth ward delegations in council and provided that before the city could purchase or sell any property, the proposal must be passed upon by the City Planning Commission. City Attorney Jack C. Savage told Hartsfield that he would not have authority to sign foreclosures for delinquent taxes if the proposal was made a law.

The third veto was to a resolution by the finance committee making $2,500 available for the purchase of a site for a fire station in the second ward. Hartsfield said the $2,500 had been made available with the understanding that WPA aid be secured in construction of a station, but that the measure up for his signature yesterday removed all restrictions and allowed purchase of a tract regardless of government assistance. He pointed out that the city now owns several fire station and library tracts on which it is financially unable to make improvements.

Hartsfield approved a measure to revoke a former city ordinance closing Ford place, but Savage said it is his opinion that once a street has been closed, the council would have no right to reopen it if such action injured rights of property owners.

Thus the approval of the latter paper was regarded as ineffectual. All other council papers sent to the mayor were approved.

HULL ASSERTS AMERICAS ARE DEDICATED TO JUST PEACE

SAYS EACH READY TO DEFEND ITSELF AGAINST THREATS

Delegates of 21 Republics Hear U. S. Secretary in Pan-American Rites at N. Y. World's Fair.

NEW YORK, Sept. 22.—(AP)—Secretary of State Hull declared today that each of the American republics was "ready to defend itself against any threat to its security that may come from any part of the world."

"At the same time," he added, "it is the unalterable desire of each and every one of our nations to remain at peace ourselves and to exercise all influence in our power toward the end that just and enduring peace may become firmly established everywhere."

As the secretary spoke during ceremonies marking Pan-American day at the New York World's Fair, delegates of the 21 American republics were gathered in Panama for the opening tomorrow of an inter-American neutrality conference. Hull referred to previous inter-American conferences as having "played a great role" in the development of "faith and trust among the American nations," and continued:

"At this very moment representatives of all of the American governments are assembling in Panama for the purpose of taking the measures necessary to safeguard the peace of the Americas. Here we see the functioning of an international system of co-operative peace, designed to assure internal concord and external security for the nations of our hemisphere."

During the fair program, sponsored by the Pan-American Union, of whose governing board Hull is chairman, the secretary of state was awarded a gold medal by the Inter-American Commercial Arbitration Commission for his "work in fostering peace" between this country and Latin America.

Thomas J. Watson, commission chairman, made the presentation in the presence of ranking diplomatic envoys of the Latin-American countries, the members of the union's governing board and city and fair officials.

2,000 ARE EXECUTED IN RUMANIAN PURGE

New Government Makes Full Use of Carol's Dictatorial Powers.

By LLOYD LEHRBAS.
BUCHAREST, Sept. 22.—(AP)—Rumania's purge of known members of the pro-Nazi Iron Guard as vengeance for Premier Armand Calinescu's assassination was declared by informed sources tonight to total "nearly 2,000" executions. It was officially announced that 292 guardsmen on whose organization Calinescu had waged unceasing war—paid the supreme penalty for membership in the outlawed terrorist band.

The new government headed by three generals made full use of King Carol's dictatorial powers to stamp out what had been feared was a widespread revolt.

The military regime reported 44 guardsmen were executed at Merckurea-Ciuc concentration camp, 32 at Prahova and at least three in each of Rumania's 72 administrative districts.

However, the number executed at 10 other concentration camps was undisclosed, although it was known hundreds of convicted guardsmen, many with suspended death sentences, have been confined there.

Calinescu, always friendly to Great Britain and France, was shot to death by a masked band as he rode in his automobile on a main Bucharest street yesterday. The scene was only a five-minute walk from Cotroceni castle, where King Carol is living.

Rests in State.
The slain premier's body was taken to the Athenaeum, one of the city's most imposing buildings, and placed, flag-draped, in an open coffin on a dais where it will rest in state until the funeral Sunday. A guard of honor of the King's regiment stood watch.

The purge began in all parts of the country a few hours after seven men accused of being the

Americans See British Ship Sink Disguised Nazi Sub

Destroyer Beats Crippled U-Boat in 10-Minute Death Struggle on High Seas as Liner Passengers Use Binoculars.

HOBOKEN, N. J., Sept. 22.—(AP)—Americans arriving on the American cargo-liner Steel Mariner today told of a death fight between a British destroyer and a German submarine just off the British coast, which ended, they said, in the U-boat's being sunk with the loss of its entire crew.

Captain Frederick Pickering, the freighter's master, said the submarine, apparently unable to submerge, had been disguised as a fishing boat.

During the afternoon of September 11, shortly after the Steel Mariner sailed from Avonmouth, England, the captain said he sighted "a strange looking craft going across the bow."

"One of my officers said it looked like a submarine in disguise. . . you could see the periscope."

Then those on the freighter saw

French Troops Find Pigs Big Help in Saar Advance

SCHENGEN, Luxembourg Frontier, Sept. 22.—(UP)—French troops advancing along the Moselle river during the past four days have used thousands of pigs to touch off mined areas along the Luxembourg frontier.

After the pigs were blown to bits, the French advanced and occupied the terrain thus cleaned of mines.

The French are bringing up more pigs, hoping to carry out a further advance.

KING GEORGE LEAVES FOR WINDSOR CASTLE

LONDON, Sept. 22.—(AP)—King George left London tonight for the first time since the beginning of the war to spend the week end at Windsor Castle.

NAZI MYSTERY SHIP ARRIVES IN CHILE

SEATTLE, Sept. 22.—(AP)—Safe arrival of the west coast's war-time mystery ship, the German motorship Portland, at Coquimbó, Chile, was reported today by Suddén & Christensen, agents for the Hamburg-American line. Whereabouts of the vessel had been a mystery since it discharged its passengers—paying a penalty for so doing—at Everett, Wash.

"FIREFLY" VOGUE FOR PEDESTRIANS

BERLIN, Sept. 22.—(AP)—War-time customs introduced a new vogue for pedestrians in Germany today. Phosphorescent buttons and brooches were offered by shops to protect persons walking the streets during nightly blackouts. The effect was a "firefly" vogue.

actual killers were executed here with their own revolvers. Women were declared to have been among those shot.

"Quick justice" has been one of King Carol's unwavering policies. It was meted out dramatically last November 30 when Corneliu Zelea Codreanu, iron guard "Hitler," and 14 of his chief aides were slain by police while "attempting to escape."

All Is Quiet.
In place of public panic following a blurted statement on the radio by an Iron Guardist that Calinescu had been assassinated, a communique said "all is quiet and order in Rumania."

There was stark contrast between the military honor paid Calinescu's body and the treatment accorded the assassins' bodies which lay for more than 24 hours where they were executed—on the same spot where the premier was slain.

The blood-spattered bodies sprawled awkwardly where they fell after the executioners—one to each man—fired a bullet into their heads behind an ear. Bodies of two other assassins, said to have committed suicide when police surrounded their refuge, were dumped on the avenue with them.

Near by was a banner reading: "Such will be the fate of all assassins and traitors of the country."

Lines of Rumanians filed past the scene after the midnight execution carried out in the presence of a small crowd, huddled silently beyond the roped-off oblong area.

King Carol accompanied the slain premier's widow and son in procession through the city.

A funeral oration will be given Sunday and after that the body will be taken to Arges for burial.

Germany and Soviet Russia, in a joint agreement yesterday, established a line of troop demarcation in Poland, which places three-fifths of Poland for occupancy by Russian troops and two-fifths by Nazi soldiers. The line of demarcation will follow the continuous north-south line formed by the Pisu, Naraw, Vistula and San rivers. Thus Russia will gain the cities of Lublin, Luck, Lwow, Brest-Litovsk, Bialystok and Wilna. Warsaw on the west bank of the Vistula river, will remain in German hands. Diplomatic negotiations to settle the future of Poland and the Polish people, meanwhile are continuing in Moscow.

Yonkers Police Oust Captain Of Polish Liner in 'Mutiny'

Official Secrecy Shrouds Incident Which Follows British 'Taking Over' Ship and Ordering It to Proceed to Halifax.

By JOHN A. MOROSOFF, III.
YONKERS, N. Y., Sept. 22.—(AP)—The World War hero-captain of the Polish liner Batory and 200 crew members today were removed from the vessel by Yonkers police who were told the crew had mutined against an order to sail the ship to Canada for war-time service.

The full story of the "mutiny" and the orders which reportedly prompted it was shrouded in official secrecy. But several hours after the police intervention, the Batory sailed down the Hudson river from the anchorage it had held since September 5.

Captain Henry S. Murphy said he boarded the liner and removed part of the crew at the request of Polish Consul General Dr. Sylvester Gruska. Murphy said that Captain Eustazy Borkowski, who was decorated 12 times by four governments for bravery in the World War, reported the mutiny, saying many of the crew refused to sail. Relieved of his command, he was replaced by First Officer Franciszek Szudziński.

Murphy said he was told the Batory, homeless since Germany seized the Polish port of Gdynia, had been "taken over" by the British admiralty, which had ordered it to proceed to Halifax to take on supplies for transportation to England.

Consulates Mum.
Both the British and Polish consulates in New York refused to discuss the matter in detail.

The British consulate said the admiralty had not informed it of any order regarding the Batory, but spokesmen in New York and Washington said it was "quite logical" for the admiralty to take charge of the ship because of England and Poland being allies.

Polish Vice Consul Jan Scagniol asserted there had been no disorder aboard the ship and, despite the report by police, said no police had boarded her. He termed the crew's action "a little sit-down strike."

Part of the crew didn't want to sail so they went ashore," he added. Scagniol said also that Captain Borkowski had "a terrific temper" but "left the ship quietly."

Borkowski, in tears when he left his vessel, was too upset to discuss the incident.

"I can't talk today," he said. "Maybe tomorrow or some other day I tell you the whole truth."

Police Captain Henry S. Murphy said he boarded the liner and removed part of the crew at the request of Polish Consul General Dr. Sylvester Gruska. Murphy said that Captain Eustazy Borkowski, who was decorated 12 times by four governments for bravery in the World War, reported the mutiny, saying many of the crew refused to sail. Relieved of his command, he was replaced by First Officer Franciszek Szudziński.

Nazi Deserter Prefers Fight To Going Home

ALBANY, N. Y., Sept. 22.—(AP)—A 25-year-old man who claimed he is a former Nazi storm trooper implored a federal district judge today to permit him to join the Canadian or British armies rather than deport him to Germany, where he said he faces death for desertion.

Frederick Wilhelm Arnold Eickhoff told Judge Frank Cooper he fled Germany to escape service in the Spanish war, going to Holland and thence in August, 1936, to Montreal, Canada. Last month, Eickhoff related, he fled to the United States because he feared he would be mistaken for a spy.

Judge Cooper sentenced the man to a year in Albany county jail on a charge of illegal entry to the United States pending a check of his story.

FARMERS, INDUSTRIAL LEADERS END PARLEY

AUBURN, Ala., Sept. 22.—(AP)—Farmers and manufacturers completed today a two-day roundtable on mutual interests and problems, with much of the conference devoted to discussion of war-time trends of commodity prices.

The conference was sponsored by the agriculture committee of the National Association of Manufacturers.

Dr. John Lee Coulter, economist and principal speaker at today's session, attributed rising prices in the United States to "a war psychology, rather than the law of supply and demand."

SPANKING NEW BABY OPPOSED BY DOCTOR

HONOLULU, Sept. 22.—(AP)—Spanking a child to start him off in life draws a scientific frown from Dr. Eldon Webb Tice.

The Los Angeles surgeon, author of a flexible tube method of starting a baby's breathing, told the Pan-Pacific Surgical Congress today refinement of the method cut the mortality rate in 1,635 deliveries to one-tenth of 1 per cent.

In a neighboring area, where older methods such as spanking were used, the rate was 30 per cent, he said.

MAJOR ASSAULT AWAITED IN WEST

he said carried the war to Germany soil "for the first time since Napoleon the first."

On the eastern front, Girardoux said, Germany had suffered more than 150,000 army casualties, 400 to 600 planes lost and 600 to 700 pilots killed.

Meanwhile, he said, French mobilization had been completed and the war carried to Germany on the western front.

In the economic field, he went on, Germany had lost more by the French threat to the rich Saar basin than she had gained in the occupation of Poland.

In the propaganda sphere he called Germany's position "impossible to pardon to neutrals."

It was the first detailed account of operations to be given the French public since France and Britain declared war on Germany September 3. Military observers noted that it coincided with military information relayed from the front by air observers who reported it was noticeable from the air that German divisions were reduced in numbers by casualties on the eastern front.

Nazi Gun Launch Drive.

Information from the war front gave the impression that it might well be the Germans who would launch an offensive.

For days the Nazis have been scouting French advance lines with patrol parties and planes in the usual preliminary to a big push.

The Germans were reported moving massive reinforcements from the eastern front to the western front. The fact that today the Germans halted their scouting activity and apparently were content to rest on information already gathered gave the impression here that they were all set.

French preliminary activity on the front itself left military observers in Paris with the feeling

Turkish-Soviet Pact Seen; Would Be Blow to Allies

Unless War Takes Another Turn Turkey Must Be Counted Out of Any 'Stop Hitler' Alliance If She Signs Mutual Aid Accord, Says Bomar.

By EDWARD E. BOMAR.
Associated Press Staff Writer.
Reports from Istanbul that Turkey may conclude a mutual assistance agreement with Soviet Russia suggest another defeat for the British-French allies on what just now is the war's most important sector—the diplomatic front.

Foreign Minister Saracoglu's trip to Moscow can hardly mean anything else than a further crumbling of the front the allies undertook to set up in the Balkans and the Near East. Unless the war takes another turn, Turkey must be counted out of any "stop Hitler" alliance.

More menacingly, the prospective compact may well mean a definite advance for Germany in the resumption of the historic drive to the east toward the Suez canal.

May Close Dardanelles.
The next move to look for is an announcement that the Dardanelles will be closed in the interest of peace and neutrality, keeping British and French warships out of the Black Sea and away from Russia and the Balkans' eastern shore.

Like the desperate plight of unhappy Rumania, the development casts light on the way the Balkans and Turkey are being squeezed between aggressive Germany and passively threatening Russia.

Almost until the actual start of the war, Turkey was considered an ally of the British and French and a foe of Germany, reversing 1914-18. The Turks already have a mutual assistance compact with Britain and France, and a former chief of the French general staff, Veteran General Weygand, has been trying at Ankara to translate diplomatic understandings into military terms.

Turkey was to be the main bulwark of a Balkan-Near East front, or at least a benevolent neutral, keeping the Dardanelles open to sea traffic. Sooner or later, her modern army of some 22 first line divisions was counted on for active assistance to the allies.

Russia's bombshell pact of August 24 with Germany and the that it was more defensive than offensive.

A high command communique tonight said it was a calm day "on the entire front."

"Our sea forces continue to assure efficiently the protection of our convoys and to pursue the enemy submarines," it added.

Daladier and his main aides took off from Paris at dawn aboard a military plane for the London conference with Prime Minister Chamberlain, British Foreign Secretary Lord Halifax and Lord Chatfield, Britain's minister for co-ordination of defense.

Dusk was falling when Daladier returned to the war ministry from the airport where he landed on his return.

It was the first meeting between the British and French high councils since Prime Minister Chamberlain flew to France for a session September 14. That meeting lasted only a few hours.

Big Guns Moved Up.
Both French and German forces were reported tonight to be moving up big guns south and east of Saarbrücken, key German industrial city and apparently the immediate goal of French army penetration into the German Saarland.

U. S. GIVES ORDERS FOR AIRCRAFT TO COST $58,585,061

Administration Also Signals 'Go' on $10,000,000 Air Research Lab To Outdistance Nazi Science

WASHINGTON, Sept. 22.—(P)—The administration's program of rebuilding the national air defenses was stepped up to a faster pace today with the award of $58,585,061 in aircraft contracts and a decision to build a west coast aeronautical research laboratory as quickly as possible.

The new laboratory will be constructed at Moffett field, near Sunnyvale, Cal., and is expected to cost $10,000,000. The last session of congress appropriated $1,900,000 to start work on the project.

U. S. Now Lags.
Announcing selection of Moffett field for the site, officials of the national advisory committee for aeronautics said actual construction probably would begin within two months.

"It all depends on how fast bids can be advertised and a contract awarded," one official said.

The new Moffett field laboratory will conduct experimental work on development of improved aircraft. The only present laboratory of that type in this country is that of the NACA at Langley field, Virginia.

For many years, American-made military aircraft were conceded to be the best in the world, but some aviation engineers now believe that Germany has progressed beyond this country and attribute it to greater emphasis there on research.

Most of the plane orders represented in the $58,585,061 worth of contracts signed by the War Department today had been previously awarded tentatively.

400 Training Planes.
One new contract was a $2,843,405 order for 400 primary training planes, awarded to the Boeing Airplane Company, Stearns division, Wichita, Kan.

Observation, pursuit, training and bombing planes were included in the other contracts, but in line with War Department policy the number was not disclosed.

BIDS ARE OPENED ON FIVE ROAD JOBS

Three of Projects Will Eliminate Railroad Grade Crossings.

Apparent low bids on five state highway projects opened by the highway board yesterday were $65,000 less than engineer's advance estimates. The bids totaled $248,403.

It was the first letting since June 30, and three of the five projects were relettings. Chairman W. L. Miller said low bidders would be announced at 10 o'clock this morning after all bids had been checked.

Three of the jobs will eliminate railroad grade crossings by either overhead bridges or underpasses. The apparent low bidders on projects by counties:

Haralson—Constructing overhead bridge at Central of Georgia railroad on Buchanan-Villa road, near W. J. Tidwell Jr., Douglasville. $6,845.

Haralson—Constructing underpass and concrete approaches at Central of Georgia railroad on Bremen-Carrollton road. J. G. Atkinson Construction Company, Statesboro. $17,861.10.

Talbot—Constructing 343 mile graded approaches and underpass at Atlanta, Birmingham & Coast railroad in Junction City on Geneva-Butler road. Schley County, Columbus. $22,224.44.

Clay and Calhoun—Constructing 6.254 mile surface-treated road on Fort Gaines-Morgan road, beginning at Junction State Routes 1 and 37 in Clay and extending 4.280 miles, Morgan; also 1.207 miles in Edison and .674 in Morgan. Claussen-Lawrence Construction Company of Augusta and E. M. Beckham, 107-R-48, 45.

Clay and Randolph—Constructing 3.552 mile surface-treated road on Blakely-Cuthbert road which will complete unimproved section between State Route 37 and Cuthbert. MacDougall Construction Company, Atlanta. $93,623.04.

Ingalls To Build 4 Vessels To Cost $10,200,000.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 20.—(P)—The Maritime Commission today awarded contracts for the construction of 11 cargo vessels, bringing to 125 the number of ships it has ordered since it started to rehabilitate the merchant marine about two years ago.

Four of the 11 will be constructed by the Ingalls Shipbuilding Corporation of Birmingham, Ala., at its plant at Pascagoula, Miss., at a price of $2,550,000 each.

These ships, of the C-3 design, are 492 feet long, have a displacement of 17,600 tons, and a speed of 16 1-2 knots.

DUKE 'DIFFERENT' IN HIS UNIFORM

Windsor Departs From Military Regulations.

LONDON, Sept. 22.—(P)—Major General the Duke of Windsor was photographed in uniform today for the first time since his return to England to help his country.

Military regulations did not prevent the Duke's usual distinctive touch. He wore non-regulation shoes. His gas mask was equipped with a white sling instead of the khaki one.

As major general he receives army pay roughly equivalent to $20 daily.

(Editor's Note: A second Associated Press dispatch from London said "The Duke of Windsor has arrived in France where he was scheduled to take a military post as major general. There was no indication what his assignment would be.")

550,000 GET JOBS SINCE MID-JULY

WASHINGTON, Sept. 22.—(P)—Increasing employment, attributed in part to the European war, set Labor Department experts at work today devising means of preventing "possible labor shortages" in some lines.

Secretary of Labor Perkins told reporters that from mid-July to mid-September some 550,000 workers were added to pay rolls. He estimated that 300,000 of them were hired since mid-August.

Among the industries reporting gains were textiles, steel, aircraft, automobiles, ship-building and metal packing.

FATALLY SHOT, ROBBED.

CROSS CITY, Fla., Sept. 22.—(P)—Shot while sitting in his bed reading, Elwood Franklin Bennett, 67, died today en route to a Gainesville hospital. Sheriff's deputies said the fatal shot was fired through a screen door, after which Bennett's assailant cut the screen door and rifled the pockets of his trousers, said to have contained about $25 in cash.

NEUTRALITY LAW IS BEING DRAFTED

belligerent ports and zones of war is one objective upon which nearly all in the senate are agreed. It is an essential part of the "cash and carry" plan under which the nations at war would be required to pay cash for supplies bought here and furnish ships for their transportation. Pittman has long been a firm believer in "cash and carry."

What Roosevelt wants. In his address of yesterday, President Roosevelt also expressed his approval, but asked that he and the State Department be given broad discretion in deciding what areas are to be regarded as zones of war.

"I believe," he said, "that American merchant vessels should, so far as possible, be restricted from entering danger zones. War zones may change so swiftly and so frequently in the days to come, that it is impossible to fix them permanently by act of congress; specific legislation may prevent adjustment to constant and quick change."

"It seems, therefore, more practical to delimit them through action of the State Department and administrative agencies. The objective of restricting American ships from entering such zones may be attained by prohibiting such entry by the congress; or the result can be substantially achieved by executive proclamation that all such voyages are solely at the risk of the American owners themselves."

On Shipping To Neutrals.
Pittman declared that besides containing the flat prohibition against American ships carrying goods to belligerents, the new bill would also include a provision permitting the President to set up other danger zones into which the ships could not venture.

He said that this would prevent shipments to "dangerous neutrals." If on one side in the European war were to complain that American shipments to a neutral country were being transmitted to a belligerent and announce that it would sink American ships carrying such cargoes, the President

COUNCIL OF ALLIES MAPS WAR COURSE

British, French Leaders Hold Parley in London; Agree Completely.

By ROBERT BUNNELLE.
LONDON, Sept. 22.—(P)—The supreme war council of Great Britain and France met in England today and announced "complete agreement" on the European war.

A communique from No. 10 Downing street said:

"The supreme war council considered the question of munitions and supplies and agreement was reached on procedure for coordinating and perfecting the arrangements to be made by the two governments."

Today's protracted meeting took place as Great Britain, building her domestic strength to "give strength behind the thrust" of her armies, told her workers "the increasing momentum of the national effort will call upon all the resources of our man and woman power."

Consul Missing.
Other announcements by the ministry included:

B. W. A. Massey, British vice consul at Poznan, Poland, is missing. All other British consular officers in Poland have left safely.

A ministry of labor communique reporting 76,000 more men had found work while 175,000 women lost jobs between August 14 and September 11 because of wartime dislocations, predicted adjustments would come with development of Britain's war program.

Reinforcing this view was a broadcast by Sir Samuel Hoare, lord privy seal, asserting that in Great Britain's war effort "there will be no room for idle hands" and adding, "I am certain that at no distant date there is scarcely an able-bodied man or woman whose services the community will not need. Be patient therefore if you have sought war work and have not yet found it. The war work will soon be seeking you."

Nazi Officers Put in Prison.
The ministry of information reported that a number of German officers, prisoners of war, had been brought to England and placed in a prison camp. Other prisoners, said the ministry's communique, were taken to another camp.

The announcement recalled that on September 15 Chamberlain told the house of commons prisoners had been taken in British successes against submarines.

A report from the British Press Association indicated that internal politics in Britain had been dispensed with for the duration of the war. The announcement said representatives of principal British political parties had agreed there would be no municipal or parliamentary elections while the war continues.

DIES TELLS JURY OF SABOTAGE FEAR

Testifies Against Man Term-Ed Would-Be Prober.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 22.—(P)—Representative Dies, Democrat, Texas, chairman of the committee on un-American activities, said he appeared before a grand jury today to testify about a man whom he has accused of trying to "sabotage" the committee's work.

Some time ago, Dies declared that Fraser Gardner, of Washington, tried to get a job as a committee investigator while in the employ of an organization under investigation by the committee.

The organization named was the Skyland Press, operated by William Dudley Pelley, leader of the Silver Shirts.

then could establish a combat zone around the neutral country. It was Senator Borah, Republican, Idaho, who disclosed the opponents of repealing the arms embargo were considering the idea of setting up a national committee to take the fight to the country.

F. D. R. Sees Senators.
During the day, President Roosevelt conferred individually with several senators, both Republicans and Democrats.

Among his callers was Senator Gillette, Democrat, Iowa, who on leaving the White House told reporters that his position on neutrality was what it always had been: that if any specific proposal was designed to prevent American involvement in war, he was ready to vote for it; that if its objective was participation on one side or the other, he was opposed to it.

He gave no direct reply to a question as to his view on repeal of the arms embargo.

McNary Is Caller.
Mr. Roosevelt's other callers included Senators McNary, of Oregon, the Republican leader, and White, Republican, Maine. McNary said the President had gone over the European situation with him, while White told reporters he would vote in the foreign relations committee to report the legislation to the floor. As for action in the senate he said he was uncommitted and had yet to make up his mind.

White was one of the 12 senators who voted last session to postpone consideration of the neutrality legislation. Eleven voted for immediate consideration.

A decision of 20 Democratic senators to try to limit the session to neutrality was taken at a joint meeting of the Democratic steering and policy committees. Unanimously, the meeting adopted a resolution expressing its view. Those who attended were: Kentucky: Minton; Indiana: Glass; Virginia: Tydings; Maryland: Ashurst; Arizona: Wagner; New York: Byrnes; South Carolina: Byrd; Virginia: Lee; Oklahoma: Smathers; New Jersey: Van Nuys; Indiana: George; Georgia: Connally; Texas: Green; Rhode Island: Schwartz; Wyoming: Sheppard; Texas: McKellar; Tennessee: Pittman; Nevada: Guffey; Pennsylvania; and Neely, West Virginia.

Russell Says U. S. Can Stay Out of War

HONOLULU, Sept. 22.—(P)—Four of five congressmen ending a week's visit in Hawaii said they believed the United States could stay out of the European war.

The four are Representatives Clarence J. Brown, Republican, Ohio; Cliff Cleveland, Republican, Ohio; Albert C. Rutherford, Republican, Pennsylvania; and Senator Richard B. Russell Jr., Democrat, Georgia.

Representative John A. Martin, Democrat, Colorado, declared he was in favor of doing everything possible to help Great Britain and France except send troops to Europe.

SAM BARRON DIES; FORMER HOTELMAN

Member of Firm Which at One Time Operated Robert Fulton, Atlantan.

Sam Barron, 64, member of the firm of Barron & Wilson, now dissolved, which for years operated both the Robert Fulton and Atlantan hotels, died yesterday afternoon at his home in Augusta.

Friends here said he had been in bad health for many months and that his death was not unexpected. He was a native and lifelong resident of Augusta.

In addition to the two Atlanta hotels, the firm operated several others in Alabama and North Carolina. The firm originally was Heyman, Barron & Wilson, later becoming Barron & Wilson. It dissolved about seven years ago.

Surviving are two brothers, Sol Barron, of Augusta, and Abraham Barron, of Columbia, S. C., and three sisters, Mrs. Charles Abraham, of Augusta; Mrs. Rae Engel, of New York; and Mrs. Sara Skar, of Hyacin, Poland.

Funeral services will be conducted at 3 o'clock tomorrow afternoon at Augusta.

LIQUOR CONVICTION UPHELD BY COURT

Whisky Had Alabama, But No Georgia Stamps.

In moving for a new trial, the defendant objected to a portion of the judge's charge which said the fact the liquor bore Alabama state stamps was no defense in the prosecution. The court held this charge did not violate the interstate commerce act nor comity between states, as contended by the appellant.

Revolting, If True

Ralph McGill, in Washington to observe the inside workings of the coming congressional debate on the embargo clause of the neutrality act, stated in yesterday's Constitution, "It is safe to say that most of the opposition which exists to the neutrality measure is political. The psychology is obvious. The Republicans desperately fear Roosevelt may gain strength by this emergency . . . the request to put by party politics was entirely futile."

It is one thing to attribute, as the President in his speech requested, complete sincerity to those who do not see as we do on this issue of neutrality and the best way to keep the United States from war. That all honest men are willing, and glad, to do. Sincere difference of opinion is the soil from which wisest actions spring.

It is, however, altogether a different thing when opponents of a presidential program of such import are motivated by party politics or personal dislike of the man himself. Members of the senate or the house, or private citizens, who would permit politics or jealousy to influence their judgment on an issue so vital to the people of this country and of the entire world, are beneath contempt of all sincere men and women.

The world today is facing an Armageddon that may well spell death to the civilization that has grown through the centuries in Europe. All over the world men's hearts are heavy as they contemplate ethical progress and human honor toppling toward oblivion in a flood of bestial and ruthless force.

It has come to pass that the United States and her neighbor nations of America hold almost the sole hope for survival of democratic freedom. To keep that torch alight it is most important, at this time, that the United States not be drawn into the maelstrom of war.

President Roosevelt has declared his sincere and thoughtful belief that the best way to avoid this nation's involvement is to repeal the embargo clause of the neutrality act. By doing this, a "cash-and-carry" system in the sale and shipment of munitions of war, by this nation, can be instituted. Under this plan any belligerent who bought war materials in America could not buy on credit but must pay cash before removing the goods from these shores. The goods could not be transported by American ships, but only in the vessels of the purchasing belligerent nation.

American ships and American citizens, under this plan, would be barred from entering the war zones and thus exposing themselves to danger of incident that might well arouse American national emotion to such a peak that war, for us, would be unavoidable.

Under the same program there could be no solicitation of funds in this country for any belligerent nation and other parallel precautions would be instituted.

This is the program which the President believes the best safeguard against American involvement in the war.

This paper agrees on that point. The Constitution has, in the past, been compelled to disagree with the President on some policies, but on this, the greatest issue that has faced his administration, there is no divergence of opinion.

On the other hand, there are those who believe the present embargo on the sale of certain materials of war to belligerent nations is a better safeguard of peace. We do not agree. In fact, it appears to us plain that continuance of that embargo is extremely likely to lead us into war.

To most of those who do not see with us on this issue we gladly give tribute of confidence in their sincerity.

But if, as Ralph McGill reports, the opposition to repeal is based, with some members of congress, on purely political or personal grounds, there arises a situation that should bring the blush of shame to the cheeks of all men of sincere conviction.

To play politics with such an issue, under world conditions as they are today, is a crime more heinous and more heartless than the fiddling Nero perpetrated while Rome burned.

Unless America, through her congress, decides this issue solely on the ground of keeping this nation out of war, she will deserve whatever fate the future may bring.

When politics enters such a debate, politics becomes a revolting and evil monster.

Using An Emergency

One of the most disturbing chapters of the evacuation of American citizens from European war zones is that of the tie-up of vessels in New York harbor by the refusal of ships' crews to obey orders.

There appears, today, little immediate danger to those persons stranded in Europe. For that reason, perhaps, the mutinous conduct of the merchant marine personnel was not taken too seriously. It should be remembered, however, that the holocaust has merely been delayed by maneuvers, and any day may see the bombs raining into the great cities of Europe, with American lives at stake. Since America's problem in staying out of the war is in great part emotional, there is all the more reason why speed in evacuation is essential.

The crews used the emergency as a lever to higher pay. There can be little complaint against their demands for war risk insurance, but little patience with the "squeeze" tactics employed in a time of stress. The incident merely emphasizes the need for a complete change in the personnel system of the merchant marine and the return of stern discipline aboard ship. The operating crews, at least, should be under discipline similar to that of the navy, and the constant turmoil of the American shipping industry eliminated.

The vessels needed to bring Americans home from the danger zones may now sail. But the seamen were totally heedless of the plight of their countrymen while they pursued their own course and valuable days were lost.

Wastebaskets and Research

A refreshing bit of news from Columbus (Ohio) attests to the vitality of American ingenuity—a quality which helped to make this nation great. The story concerns the eight months of wastebasket research on the problem "Why People Discard Sales Letters Without Opening Them," made by Arthur Barrett, who quit his job as a filling station operator to become an energetic inventor.

Barrett, with a head full of ideas, invented a gadget to tell filling station operators how much other business they should do for each thousand gallons of gasoline sold. He had an impressive mailing list and began an intensive direct mail campaign. But the results, in his own words, were "terrible." So he decided to investigate. He directed a corps of assistants to the bottom of things—in the waste basket. For eight months, these assistants counted unopened sales letters in waste baskets in some of Ohio's biggest industries, stores and offices. Thus Barrett obtained valuable data—information that 400 out of every thousand third-class letters went into the discard without ever having been read.

With this evidence, Barrett's mind tackled the problem. The result—a new envelope that is self-opening. The device has the lower left-hand corner clipped enough to allow the folded letter to protrude a bit. All one does is to grasp the protruding portion with the right hand—and pull. Barrett has applied for a patent, ringing up another victory for that good old American quality ingenuity. We will await the report from the wastebaskets.

We supposed the Russians were sitting out this one, but it just comes to us that Russians dance sitting down.

Our grocer, who goes over the ends of all new cantaloupes with a hammer, laughs at Nazi claims that wood is edible.

With the mercury at 95, a Purdue grid squad of 70 loses 700 pounds in a workout and would like to hear from some federal authority seeking a self-liquidating project.

An ex-third baseman now leads all big league pitchers in games won. It encourages the wild hope that Providence may have a use in mind for shortstops.

With the broadcasters of censored news kidding us from four capitals, a thought is to put the boys on together—as a string quartet.

Editorial of the Day

RUSSIA INTERVENES.

(From the New York Times.)

At least one thing is made clear by the latest words of action of Russia. The Soviet government is not disinterested in the effects of the war in Europe. But a war-strength mobilization along the entire western border, from Finland to Rumania, reported to involve 4,000,000 men, is certainly not a peace move, or a mere precaution to maintain Russian neutrality. It is an impressive and portentous indication that the Red army is ready to intervene in the struggle for Poland. It is a clear warning that the U. S. S. R. does not dissociate itself from the European conflict.

The extent of the Soviet mobilization seems to surprise and disturb the Germans as well as the British. The swiftness of the German advance in Poland brings them in less than a fortnight within striking distance of the Russian frontier. Likewise, evidently, it brings them up against a great and disquieting question mark. What are the Russians going to do? Are they alarmed as they see the German war machine rolling across Galicia toward the flat fields of the Soviet Ukraine? Has Hitler's lightning thrust eastward sown doubts as to his real objective in the suspicious mind of Stalin? And are the Nazi leaders sure whether the armies rising on the nearing horizon are with them or against them?

These questions cast their shadow over the west wall as the partners in the nonaggression pact meet in the east.

In raising the Ukrainian question for the first time as Poland is overrun by the Germans, the Communists copy the tactics and even the language of the Nazi campaign against the Czechs. Russia is obviously filing a claim for a part of Polish territory. Imminent developments will reveal whether the partition of Poland was included in the bargain between Hitler and Stalin or whether the sphinx of the Kremlin is moving to block Germany by threatening to create a Great Ukraine under Soviet domination. In the first case Russia and Germany are in active partnership in the second, Russia is preparing to draw profit for herself out of German invasion. Either event means Russian intervention in the European conflict and that at once changes the scale and character of the struggle. The battles over Warsaw and Saarbrücken are critical engagements; but nothing in the darkening panorama is likely to influence the character of the war as profoundly as the action shaping in the narrowing margin between the poised force of Russia and the moving force of Germany.

THE CAPITAL PARADE

By JOSEPH ALSOP AND ROBERT KINTNER.

LONGER-TERM EMERGENCY WASHINGTON, Sept. 21.—While the status of the Neutrality Act occupies the main stage, longer-term aspects of the war emergency are receiving much attention behind the administration scenes. A good sample is the puzzle of prices, which has not been forgotten just because the first frenzied days of the war boom are now over.

Sooner or later, wartime price rises are expected to become serious, and methods of dealing with them are being carefully thought out informally canvassed among the President's henchmen. They were a main topic, for instance, at an evening meeting last week, when Attorney General Frank Murphy, Solicitor General Robert H. Jackson, SEC Chairman Jerome N. Frank, SEC Commissioner Leon Robinson, the New Deal economists, Lauchlin Currie and Isadore Lubin, and the presidential handymen, Benjamin V. Cohen, gathered for a long general discussion.

To decide who should deal with what aspects of which problems was the meeting's object. In this direction nothing was accomplished, but the talk naturally revealed the different points of view of the men around the council table. The viewpoints on prices, as on most other topics, were exceedingly divergent, yet very interesting as indications of possible lines of future administration action.

PLAN AFTER PLAN Among the men who attended the meeting last week, there is support for at least three main expedients for controlling prices, with many subsidiary permutations and combinations. Number 1 is that sponsored by Attorney General Murphy, who would rewrite and revive the Lever Act, held unconstitutional during the last war. The principle of the Lever Act was direct governmental price control by an administrative agency, which Murphy argues can be made acceptable to the courts by judicious definition of the government's powers.

Expedient Number 2, which has the support of New Deal theorists, is the passage of a new excess profits and capital gains taxes. For it, the argument is that taxation is simple, impartial and without the complexity of direct price control, yet equally effective in keeping speculative tendencies within bounds.

Expedient Number 3, which originates with Assistant Attorney General Thurman W. Arnold and is not considered adequate by itself, is the use of anti-trust enforcement to prevent monopolistic price rises. Much is made of its psychological effect.

Finally, at the treasury (which was not represented at the meeting), there are supporters for two more plans. One calls for voluntary, co-operative price control by key industries, under the supervision of the War Resources Board or some similar agency. The other proposes the use of the temporary national economic committee as a sort of public price court, before which suspected price profiteers would be called to defend themselves, to suffer the unpleasant scrutiny of publicity, and to be threatened with punitive legislation.

FORTUNATE SIGNS

These teeming ideas are doubly interesting, not only because one of them may be acted upon, but also because their very multiplicity foreshadows the policy conflicts of the future. The exponents of the taxation expedient will accuse the treasury men who talk co-operative price control of wicked leanings toward NRA. The treasury may combine with Attorney General Murphy to attack the tax plans, as punitive deterrents of business activity. Murphy's idea of exhuming the Lever Act is popular with no one but himself, and there are few with such high hopes of anti-trust action as Arnold. And so it goes.

Two fortunate signs may be noted in passing. The first is the inclination, even among men formerly accounted most anti-business, not to rock the recovery boat too much. Even those who call for new taxation talk of working out the taxes in conference with leading businessmen. And the second is the realization that hasty, ill-considered steps must be avoided like the plague.

Indeed, no one anticipates a definite decision on price policy for several months. The price situation was well forecast at a recent Commerce Department assembly of representatives of United States Steel, Sears Roebuck, Scudder, Clark, and other large industries, in good terms with the administration. They agreed that the present distinctly speculative bulge would be followed by a leveling off lasting about six months, with the real wartime price jumps beginning early next spring. This forecast is generally accepted, and full advantage will be taken of the time it allows for careful study.

Movies

On Board.

It is rather a novelty to attend a motion picture show on board ship in mid-Atlantic. While we were going east on the Aquitania, a little more than a month ago, my wife and I managed to see a program or two in the attractive theater that ship boasts.

It is a real theater, seating, I should guess, about 250 people. They do not allow standing at the rear or in the aisles and when the seats are filled, that is just too bad for those still outside.

On the return voyage, westward, the ship had so many passengers I never did get into the theater. Properly enough, they allowed the children in first and, when they were all seated, there were so few seats left for adults that I couldn't get in, although I stood in line for an hour, one time. My wife did manage, however, to see "Wuthering Heights" for the second time.

The picture I saw, on the east-bound voyage, was an English production of a crime mystery and I found it so boring I left before it was half over.

Church

On Board.

On the Sunday we left Southampton, coming home, we attended the church service in the first cabin lounge. It was a Church of England service and we found it very beautiful. Instead of an organ, they had a string orchestra which played the music, for hymns and chants, prayers and responses. The purser read the service, instead of the commander as customary. He would not leave the bridge, because of the submarine danger.

A serious and devout congregation that filled the big lounge and overflowed into the terraces on either side, where they listened through opened windows. But it was a heart-moving and exceedingly beautiful thing. I noticed that in the prayer for the King, wherever the name of King George occurred, they added to it "and His Excellency, the President of the United States."

Because we were traveling between the two continents, there was a communion service at 8 o'clock every morning of the voyage, as well as daily masses for the Catholics on board.

And the Aquitania has a large room, on F deck, which has been specially dedicated as a synagogue. There are, they say, rabbis and numerous Jews on every voyage.

Where Are They Now?

I have wondered, many times, what has become of some of the people we met and grew to know and to like on that east-bound voyage. What has the war done to them? Are they safe, or in deadly danger?

There is, for instance, the charming English-American woman, traveling alone, from the home which has been here in America, for 15 years, to see her son, in England, for the first time in 10 years. He was 15, she said, the last time she saw him. Now he was 25, a pilot in the Royal Air Force, and she was going over to be present at his marriage to an English girl.

I wonder whether she managed to get back home to America, and I wonder whether her son, and his bride, are today?

Then there is the honeymoon couple, who sat at our table in the dining salon. Mr. and Mrs. Dahle, from South Africa. A pleasant young pair of newlyweds. She was a native of Chicago and it was never quite clear to me how she had gravitated to Africa.

Anyway, for their honeymoon trip, they had traveled to her old home in Chicago and there spent a month. When they knew them they were recrossing the Atlantic for a month at his former home, in one of the Scandinavian countries. Then they planned to return to their home and work in south Africa.

When they got out of a Europe at war safely and where they are, and in what circumstances today?

There was, too, the middle-aged English woman, a resident of New York, hurrying to England to see her mother, who, she reported dangerously ill.

En Route

To Palestine.

Though we did not get to know them, there were many American "Believers" on board traveling to Palestine. Leaving their homes on this side to go to the Jewish homeland, over there. Several score of them, with at least a dozen beards and kindly-faced rabbis.

Did they get to Palestine and what conditions did they find there?

I could go on for hours wondering about the human ships that contacted us briefly, and went upon their individual ways. "That waiter in the hotel in London, for instance, who told us while we ate how he worried about his little boy, evacuated from home and parents into a so-called 'safe area.' And the obliging porter on the platform of Southampton's Central railway station, who told us that when the British regular army. Two of them who, slightly inebriated, enlivened our wait in the restaurant of Waterloo station. And the obliging clerk in Boots' drug store, there."

And Isaiah further declares that He shall have authority. The government of the universe is now in the hands of God as it always has been and always will be. At the same time man is free to choose between good and evil. Man is thus responsible for his deeds.

God's government, through His Son, is one of peace. Men are at war with one another when they are out of harmony with God. The only hope for universal peace in this world is to bring all men to accept the rule of God through Jesus Christ in their hearts, which is the Kingdom of God. God has been patient and merciful in His dealings with man, seeking to win man to His will and way. He could destroy every man that refuses His will, but He waits in mercy, hoping for the repentance of man. "God commandeth all men everywhere to repent."

And so, this lesson has come at a most favorable moment. Let us pray that the heart of humanity may respond to its tender word of admonition.

FAIR ENOUGH

By WESTBROOK PEGLER.

All Types of NEW YORK, Sept. 22.—Everybody has been saying that we have to be on guard against disguised or insidious propaganda these days, and I will throw in with that. I will say so, too, and I think we are. You never saw the like of the mail that is received by newspaper editors and trained seals just now and, no doubt, by the radio people, too.

A lot of it comes in the form of little Tom Thumb newspapers, but there are plenty of common mimeographed handouts and quite a few books that look pretty much like regular books. I guess you would have to admit that they are all regular books if it came to question of that, because a book is a book whether it is propaganda or whatever, for that matter. Grapes of Wrath is propaganda, and so are the books of Winston Churchill, who can book for you in about the same space that it takes a cat to be killed and does so as regularly.

I often find in my mail a little paper dedicated to the unconquerable aspirations of the people of Ethiopia, and this is a curious use all the reporters that I have talked with who were in there said the Ethiopians were the scabiest and most abysmal rascals they ever saw, who really didn't give a damn who ruled the country and, far from being up on reading and writing, couldn't even scratch their initials, if any, in the sand with a stick.

Yet this Ethiopian freedom paper is not badly put together and contains a lot of truth, because, no two ways about it, the truth is on the side of the negus. Still, I have a suspicion that somebody else, say the British or the Bolos, is putting up for the propaganda, not only to any beautiful sympathy for a people who have been wronged, but to need up a little publicity against Mussolini.

Spain, China There is a paper, published in the late July, which is a good deal of truth, and one dealing with China, but I never noticed which side the China paper is for. Another one deals with Japan, and, although I don't bother to read it, I gather that it wants to show that the Japanese have been doing the nice nations of the world a great favor by standing off the Bolos in China.

The New Deal also turns out a right smart bit of propaganda in mimeo handouts, and some of my readers tell me that the government also produces platters, or panicles, which are sent out to radio stations for use at will with a suggestion, as these friends see it, that someone in the administration is going to be terribly disappointed if this or that station doesn't find time to give the stuff a send.

You can't depend on any of this material, and I think the daily press does a good job detecting and rejecting, because I handle a great deal of it and rarely see in print anything that I recognized as a handout of this type, unless it is covered by compensating truths obtained from the opposing side. It seems to me that most of the money spent on propaganda is wasted.

GOOD MORNING By LOUIE D. NEWTON.

THE PRINCE OF PEACE. Sunday's lesson, Isaiah, chapters 7, 9 and 11, is the prophetic announcement of the birth of the Messiah King. At first glance, it may appear a touch of irony that we are to study this lesson tomorrow with much of the world torn by the strife of war. The outstanding fact of history is the Good News of the Son of God, fulfilled in His birth, according to the foretelling of the prophet.

Isaiah declares that the peace of Jerusalem shall mean three things: First, His coming as Immanuel, God with us.

Second, His mission as Saviour, God in us.

Third, His authority as Sovereign, God over us.

"Behold, a virgin shall conceive, and bear a son, and shall call His name Immanuel." The coming of Jesus means God with us. That fact, many will agree, is the greatest disclosure God has made of Himself. We rejoice in every manifestation of God in nature, and otherwise, but when He appeared in the form of human personality, man could more clearly see Him, more deeply love Him.

And He came to give glory in peace, to bring light in place of darkness, joy in place of despair, liberty in place of bondage, security in place of fear. In other words, He came to be the Saviour from sin. Isaiah, in other passages, makes this quite clear, and it will be remembered that when the angel of the Lord appeared unto Joseph, announcing that his espoused wife was the favored one of all women, the angel said, "And thou shalt call His name Jesus, for He shall save His people from their sin."

And Isaiah further declares that He shall have authority. The government of the universe is now in the hands of God as it always has been and always will be. At the same time man is free to choose between good and evil. Man is thus responsible for his deeds.

God's government, through His Son, is one of peace. Men are at war with one another when they are out of harmony with God. The only hope for universal peace in this world is to bring all men to accept the rule of God through Jesus Christ in their hearts, which is the Kingdom of God. God has been patient and merciful in His dealings with man, seeking to win man to His will and way. He could destroy every man that refuses His will, but He waits in mercy, hoping for the repentance of man. "God commandeth all men everywhere to repent."

And so, this lesson has come at a most favorable moment. Let us pray that the heart of humanity may respond to its tender word of admonition.

ONE WORD MORE

By RALPH MCGILL.

APRIL AND WARM SPRINGS WASHINGTON, D. C., Sept. 22.—Last April a refreshed yet concerned President walked slowly up the ramp to his train at Warm Springs, Ga., and turned at the top to wave to the crowd. "I'll be back for Thanksgiving if there isn't a war," he said, waving.

The editorial writers of Republican newspapers leaped to their machines and began to write of the unfortunate and unfounded alarmist attitude of Franklin D. Roosevelt. They wrote of the prospects for peace and charged him with deliberately seeking to alarm the people.

In Germany a person named Adolf Hitler spoke scornfully of war mongering. On the floor of congress some of the pompous windbags, notably two or three in the senate, spoke out against the President's farewell remark at Warm Springs.

Today there is war in Europe. The entire world is affected. This morning at his press conference the President said, before leaving for Hyde Park for the week end, that he would remain on call. He will not get more than three or four hours away from Washington. If war continues he will have to forego his usual custom of being at Warm Springs on Thanksgiving, and of carving the big turkey with some lucky patient sitting at his side and the others about him at the big table.

Opposing his efforts in the senate are the very ones who scolded him in April for any such ridiculous suggestion that war might come to the world. The leader of that group, great in its own wisdom, is Senator Borah, who said as late as July that his sources of information were better than those of the American State Department and there would be no war in Europe.

Not one of the editorial writers or speakers who shouted "alarmist" in April has apologized. They probably haven't had time. They are too busy writing editorials and speeches about keeping us out of war.

The American people soon will come to believe, if indeed they already do not believe, as do the Army and Navy departments. In time of war it is great not to have an amateur in the White House.

"IT MIGHT BE SWISS" At his press conference this morning the President appeared tired but was ready to banter with reporters as usual. He had on what the correspondents thought was a new suit. One of them asked him about it. He pulled back his coat and looked at the label.

Laughing with the crowd, he explained it was a 1936 model. He reported the government had won two submarines had been sighted, nationality unknown. One had been seen in Alaskan waters and another not far from Boston.

"They might be Canadian, Mr. President," ventured one correspondent. "On the other hand, they might be Swiss," retorted the President. Another wanted to know what sort of submarines they were. "They might be Bolivian or Afghan," he said, smiling again.

The foreign visitors can never overcome their amazement at the free and easy manner of the chief executive of this country, one of the great major powers of the world. Until today people might come and go at will about most of the White House grounds. The President sees more than 100 reporters at his conferences. He jests with them and fences with them.

Now there are restrictions on the grounds. The war emergency has brought out all the crackpots of the world. Some of them are dangerous. One of the most distressing and discouraging sights I have seen were the women who came from Philadelphia to demonstrate on Thursday. They were, they shouted, mothers of those sons undoubtedly would have been better off had their mothers remained at home to look after them instead of parading about Washington with faded flags and raucous shouts. On second thought, I believe their sons in Philadelphia would be better off if the mothers remained in Washington.

SENATOR WALTER GEORGE While Georgia's senior senator, Walter F. George, has given no announcement of his stand on the neutrality bill, he hardly can vote to retain the embargo provision. The senator very properly believes that America should stand for international decency and for the rights of neutrals. Therefore, he believes in the rights and principles of international law. This will guide him in his vote and it does not jibe with the present embargo act.

Important is Senator George's statement that he will favor and work for the construction of enough vessels of war to give us a navy of equal strength in each ocean. Important, too, is his statement he believes we should triple or even quadruple our air force to protect this hemisphere. It is foolish today to say it takes two nations to make a war. It does not. It requires but one. Hitler has shown us that. England most assuredly did not want war. Yet England is at war. France did not want war. Frenchmen are dying in war. Poland did not want war. Poland is destroyed.

It is absurd to think that this nation will escape war even if we do not go to war. We must be ready to protect the Americas. The thinking American must applaud any effort to put us in a state of preparation. Our position when war came in 1917 was pathetic and led to the death of thousands who would not have died had we been ready for war.

Our security lies in our strength. The thinking Georgians must applaud Senator George's position.

17 GEORGIA FIRMS TO PAY $4,600,000 IN FALL DIVIDENDS

Payment, Due Around October 1, Expected To Have Potential Purchasing Power of $50,000,000

Distribution of approximately $4,600,000 in dividends by 17 Atlanta and Georgia corporations around October 1 will greatly stimulate business conditions in this trading area, Alvin Cates, president of the Atlanta Chamber of Commerce, said yesterday in commenting on a list of dividends released by Courts & Company.

Cates pointed out that the average dollar changes hands from 8 to 12 times in the local trading area. This would mean, he said, that the dividends have a potential purchasing capacity of approximately $50,000,000.

Will Spur Prosperity. This amount of money flowing into the channels of trade will combine with many other things in maintaining prosperity in Georgia, he said. He referred to the large amount of building activity going on in Atlanta, citing as examples the new plant of the National Biscuit Company and the federal housing projects.

Total amount of the dividends is $4,616,709.21. Holders of 3,991,900 shares of Coca-Cola common stock will receive the largest amount, $2,993,925. The Georgia Power Company will pay out the next largest sum—$662,625 on $6 preferred and $75,000 on $5 preferred.

Several Not Listed. Several corporations paying large dividends are not on the list. Others released by Courts & Company follow:

Atlanta Gas Light Company 6 per cent preferred, $1.50 per share, $19,500.

Bibb Manufacturing Company, $1 per share, $200,000.

Continental Gin, 6 per cent preferred, $1.50 per share, $62,100.

First National Bank, 25 cents per share, $135,000.

Fulton National Bank, $1.75 per share, $17,500.

Georgia Savings Bank & Trust Company, $2 per share (semi-annually), $10,000.

Haverly Furniture Company preferred, 37 1-2 cents per share, $19,636.88.

Haverly Furniture Company, common, 10 cents per share (monthly), $20,478.10.

Rich's, Inc., 6 1-2 per cent preferred, $1.62 1-2 per share, $5,687.50.

Thomaston Cotton Mills, 6 1-2 per cent preferred, $1.62 1-2 per share, $45,587.38.

Trust Company of Georgia, $3 per share, $60,000.

West Point Manufacturing Company, 30 cents per share, $108,000.

Nehi common, 50 cents per share, $103,000.

pen to the south. It would assure better government, local and national. The Republican party can make progress by seeing to it that the delegations are composed of representative persons," he said.

The Republican national committee itself has had no respect for southern delegations. It assumed they were, with very few exceptions, for sale. It treated them in a manner befitting that status. A Republican state convention in the south rarely has had any standard of integrity or character. The Republican leaders always have known this. Not until the present unofficial head of the party was bold enough to speak out has the problem been brought before the public.

Governor Landon authorized the statement at breakfast this morning just before his departure for New York, from where he will return to Topeka.

Governor Landon has grown in strength and it may be his party will be forced to draft him in 1940. He definitely has said he is not a candidate.

Governor Landon's request for a new type delegation from the south may provide the incentive for a two-party development in Georgia and in other southern states where there has been but one effective party since the War Between the States.

It also calls attention to the fact that since 1932 the negro vote has swung from the Republican party to the Democratic party. Not until 1932 was there any marked disaffection. That year the disaffection largely was economic.

By 1934 the organization work are less inclined than they were yesterday to believe that Rumania may be partitioned in deference to German wishes. Russia, at any rate, could not allow Germany to obtain an outlet on the Black sea at Constanta or elsewhere without completely estranging Turkey, whose fixed program of foreign policy is that the status quo must not be disturbed either in the Black sea or in the Balkans. Already, Turkey is sure to be disgruntled by the reappearance of the imperial Russia she was wont to dread so much in the past. Moreover, Russia cannot relish the prospect of Germany interposing herself between her own territory and Bulgaria and Yugoslavia.

All the odds, therefore, are that the Hitlerian government will have to be content with saddling Rumania with a commercial treaty more exacting than the former one, and with being given a share, with the help of Russia's good will, in the Galician, Rumanian and Caucasian oil fields.

It is still too soon to foresee the repercussions which the territorial growth of Stalinian Russia may have upon Italy. Italy's old associate, Hungary, is now threatened in her medieval social structure by the fact that the Agrarian reform of Bolshevism will be carried out at her door. For all its fragility, the German-Russian consortium pushes to the background the German-Italian consortium.

D. A. R. "Incident." The Marion Anderson incident, in which the D. A. R. refused to permit the negro singer to appear in Constitution Hall, which the D. A. R. owns, swung them back into the Democratic fold. Mrs. Roosevelt resigned from the D. A. R. and invited the negro woman to sing at the White House, a course which was applauded by the responsible people of the nation.

The facts are, the negro vote is not so much Democratic as it is Roosevelt. His program of housing and relief won them from the Republican party. It is extremely doubtful if they will remain in the Democratic party. They will as long as the Roosevelt program remains.

Governor Landon's appeal to his party leaders to begin sending responsible, sound delegations from the southern states to the national convention, indicates that he intends to be a factor in his party's development and that one of his interests will be in seeking to organize the reputable white and negro Republicans into some real organization in the south.

DEPARTMENT STORE SALES STILL RISING

Show Gains Over Last Week and Year Before, Reserve Bank Reports.

Atlanta department store sales for the week ending last Saturday gained 10 per cent over the same week last year, and 8 per cent over the preceding week, the Federal Reserve Bank of Atlanta reported yesterday.

Sales in the Sixth Federal Reserve district for the same period showed an 11 per cent gain over the previous week, and a 2 per cent increase over the same week a year ago.

For the four weeks ending the same date, Atlanta sales climbed 17 per cent over the same four weeks of 1938, while district sales were up 13 per cent. During the last half of the four-week period, however, sales fell sharply below the first two weeks. As the last two weeks were the first two weeks of the European war, it was suggested the decline was due to housewives stocking up on staples instead of spending in department stores.

GRAND JURY ASKS FOR BUSINESSMAN TO DIRECT RELIEF

'No Professional Welfare Worker Wanted,' Special Presentments of Fulton Group Stress.

The Fulton grand jury yesterday in special presentments called upon the county board of public welfare to select a good businessman without political affiliations and "not a professional welfare worker" to succeed Dr. William Huck as director of the department of public welfare.

W. C. Wardlaw Jr., foreman, made public the presentments as the secret jury committee on relief continued its investigation by personally inspecting the inner workings of the welfare department at 160 Pryor street.

Dr. Huck Still Holds. In the meantime, Dr. Huck held to his statement that he has not resigned effective October 1 as W. E. Mitchell, chairman of the board of welfare, declared last week when the board was notified through Braswell Deen, director of the State Welfare Department, that Huck's qualifications do not meet the requirements of the Federal Social Security Board.

The jury requested the welfare board specifically that the new director should be an executive of proven business ability, and that the welfare board use its influence with the State Welfare Board and the Federal Social Security Board to have such a selection approved.

Relief Probe Continues. It was emphasized that the subcommittee on relief has not concluded its work but that it had made a preliminary report. The fact that Dr. Huck is to be replaced "has come to the attention of the grand jury from articles that have appeared in the press, as well as from other sources," it was pointed out. Recommendations concerning Huck's successor were based on "when and if Dr. Huck is replaced."

The committeemen yesterday afternoon were reported to have talked with welfare workers in the department headquarters and also with members of the office staff. Supervisors and other officials were consulted.

ANTI-LYNCHING BILL ACTION THREATENED

Supporter Says He'll Ask for Vote at Special Congress Session.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 22.—(AP)—Although congressional leaders are seeking to limit the special session to neutrality, the prospect arose tonight that the Gavan anti-lynching bill might be forced up for debate in the house.

A petition to bring the measure to the house floor was completed at the last session and, under the rules, the bill could be called up for a vote next Monday.

Representative Schaefer, Republican author, Representative Gavan, Wisconsin, said that if the vagan, Democrat, New York, did not request a vote on the legislation at the special session, he would do so. Schaefer said, however, that he had decided not to raise the anti-lynching issue Monday. The bill could be brought up next on the second Monday in October.

Gavan already has stated he would not take any action in the matter at the special session unless it is a truly prolonged or other extraneous matters are introduced.

WPA TO CUT JOBS IN FULTON COUNTY

The average will be raised to 25 per cent after January 1. Reviewing WPA relations with Fulton county, the administrator stated the federal agency has made several concessions in the past in order to keep the project in operation.

County In Areas.

September, 1938, the WPA temporarily relieved the county commission of its sponsor's contribution when the commission promised to match expenditures made during the fall and early winter at the ratio of two to one after last January. By that date, according to Miss Shepperson, the commission was $105,787 in arrears.

January 12, the county notified the WPA of its inability to furnish that sum and other normal expenditures, and asked for another adjustment.

WPA then suggested the county contribute $10,000 a month for materials and $5,000 a month for rental of equipment. On January 13, the commission resolved to appropriate $120,000 for WPA projects, with no special reference to roads.

County's Contributions.

WPA records on September 1 show that between January, 1939, and September, 1939, the county contributed $85,479.17 of the $120,000 agreed upon for road material, and $32,284.34 of the $60,000 agreed on as equipment rental for the road project.

These contributions, she pointed out, leave balances of $53,620.83 for materials and $27,715.66 for equipment rental for the rest of the year. With those contributions, she said, the WPA could employ 260 workers for the rest of the year.

While Miss Shepperson was holding a conference over the Fulton county roads, Malcolm Miller, regional director of the Works Projects Administration, said seven southern states in region five have been allotted $14,000,000 for the month of October to employ 260,000 persons—an increase of 16,000 workers over the September quota.

Georgia Employment Rise.

Besides these, he explained, there are 114,000 others certified and awaiting assignment, or eligible for certification, and an estimated 321,000 additional listed as unemployed "in need." All told, he said, there are about 695,000 persons without jobs in the seven states.

Figures released in Washington yesterday showed Georgia had shown a two per cent rise in employment from mid-July to mid-September. In numbers of additional employed this was 100,331.

More than 65 per cent of the unemployed, Miller said, are rural agricultural workers, many of whom cannot hope to regain their jobs because they have been displaced by advancing mechanization of farms and limitation of production. Others are day laborers or other unskilled workers who no longer can obtain work because of an aging race.

Can't Meet Rising Costs. "Industry wants able-bodied men," observed Miller. "Employers don't want men of 50 or 60 who have slowed up."

Meanwhile, the regional WPA director said advancing food and commodity prices would bring no corresponding increase in relief wages. The federal relief act requires that WPA wage scales shall vary in the nation only to the extent that living costs differ. A general increase in pay throughout the south September 1 brought the average WPA pay check from $42 to $47.50, compared with the national average of $55.

Miller explained increasing food and other living costs appeared to be general throughout the nation, making revision of wage scales unlikely. He said, however, abnormal advances of living costs in any particular area would be subject to review.

SEATTLE, Sept. 22.—(AP)—Too many man-hunting girls launch a business career to catch a "meal ticket," the nation's youngest woman bank official said today.

SURPLUS TEXTILES DEPLETED BY WAR

3-Shift Mill Operations Contemplated.

NEW YORK, Sept. 22.—(AP)—A record demand for cotton textiles since the start of the war has solved the recently serious inventory problem of the spinning industry, which is now planning to operate on a three-shift basis.

The war buying movement swept into consumptive channels more than 700,000,000 yards of cotton cloth constructions, it was estimated in textile circles. Moreover, it was said that approximately 65 to 70 per cent of mills stocks were sold. The great demand pushed prices as much as 1 cent a yard over August levels.

Members Play 'Bingo' To Raise Hospital Fund.

An old-fashioned square dance and a new-fashioned bingo party were held simultaneously at the Monroe Nurseries last night by the Atlanta Exchange Club to raise funds for its principal charity objective—the children's ward at Grady hospital.

More than 150 members and guests assembled for the informal get-together which began at 8:30 o'clock and lasted until midnight.

members of the British-French front forged before the war, would turn toward Germany and intimidate that Italy and Greece were expected to reach a friendship pact in the near future.

They also cast doubt on the efficacy of Turkey's mutual assistance agreements with Britain and France in pointing out that the Turkish foreign minister, Sukru Saracoglu, was en route to Moscow to discuss the situation created by the outbreak of war.

These sources said that if Turkey should abide by her agreements with Britain and France, as a result of the new Nazi-Communist collaboration, she might face the threat of Russian occupation of the Dardanelles.

Official quarters, after studying President Roosevelt's proposals for amending the United States neutrality act, commented "It was about what was expected."

War Loan Ban Surprises. Nazi officials expressed some surprise that a ban on war loans was asked.

Prohibition of American ships from entering belligerent zones would be good but these items do not do away with the fact that the cash-and-carry plan would benefit Britain exclusively," officials stated. They reminded that President Wilson spoke the same line chosen was the easiest for language in 1916 "but still the United States was dragged into the war."

Informed sources said the basic occupation line in Poland was fixed before Germany marched in September 1. It was explained the line chosen was the easiest for armies to follow without having a dispute over the occupation of villages.

WAR-BOUND BRITONS SAIL ON U. S. LINER

Hundreds of Foreigners on Washington; Six Other Ships Up Anchor.

NEW YORK, Sept. 22.—(AP)—Hundreds of British and French subjects rushed to war today aboard the United States liner Washington, one of a fleet bound for Europe to bring back Americans clamoring for passage to peace.

One of eight vessels locked in the harbor for a week by a strike of seamen demanding bonuses and other considerations for sailing in war zones, the Washington carried 850 passengers, mostly British.

Among the passengers was the Duke of Sutherland, who hoped to rejoin the naval service of his nation.

The Duke, who was accompanied by his wife, during the last war commanded his own yacht in the British naval auxiliary service. He said he hoped to repeat his service.

To "make another contribution to the men in the field," General George Linden Carpenter, new head of the Salvation Army, also sailed for England, with his daughter, Stella, and Captain Jean Cox, a staff officer.

"Some of our people are already in the field in France," said General Carpenter. Earlier, six other American ships had sailed for European ports: the Exambion, Seastates, American Trader, American Traveler, Iroquois and St. John. The Acadia was ready to leave today, awaiting only completion of a crew. The President Harding was scheduled to sail tomorrow and the American Merchant and American Shipper Sunday.

GIO FAILS TO STOP MICHIGAN UTILITY

AFL Electrical Workers Stick to Jobs and Service Goes On.

BAY CITY, Mich., Sept. 22.—(AP)—Employees of a utility company furnishing gas and electricity for 2,000,000 persons in a thousand Michigan communities called a strike today but hours later there had been only one short interruption of service.

The strike was called by the utility workers organizing committee, a Congress of Industrial Organizations affiliate, after a breakdown of negotiations between the Consumers Power Company, a Commonwealth & Southern subsidiary, and the union.

At Flint a switch was pulled in an electric substation and power was off 45 minutes of heating operations for a time at the Fisher Body plant No. 1 of General Motors Corporation.

Members of an American Federation of Labor union, the International Brotherhood of Electrical Workers, remained on duty.

Governor Luren D. Dickinson, at Lansing, said he would ask the disputants and the State Labor Mediation Board to resume conferences "after a day or two of rest."

speech, the former chief executive, who is expected to be a candidate for governor again next year, said "I list myself as a Roosevelt man. I agree most heartily with everything the President said and I think congress should follow Mr. Roosevelt on neutrality revision. This can and should be worked out to keep us out of war."

Governor Rivers was out of the state, but his views are well known as he previously had called for public support of the President in his effort to keep America out of the war.

Hugh Howell, who already has announced for Governor next year, said he had not yet read the President's speech. He added that he had saved a copy of the speech and planned to read it later.

"I am in favor of keeping the United States out of war," the Atlanta attorney said. "Of the means to do that, I am not certain."

Gillis Praises Speech. Jim L. Gillis, of Soperton, highway commissioner and chairman of the state Democratic executive committee, whose name also has been linked with the 1940 gubernatorial campaign, praised the speech highly.

"The plan of the President is definitely correct," the usually quiet state chairman said. "Congress should follow Mr. Roosevelt. National unity now is desired and necessary."

Although most business leaders declined to talk for publication, most of them plainly evidenced their personal approval of the President's stand. Those who did talk agreed with the political leaders on the soundness of the course mapped by the President.

"Fine and Sincere." A. R. Dorsen, president and general manager of the J. M. High Company, said:

"The President's speech was one of the finest and sincerest I have ever heard. I was struck by the utter frankness of it. I hope that congress co-operates with him."

Frank Neely, executive vice president of Rich's, Inc., said: "The neutrality act should have been revised long ago."

Carlisle Dinkler, local executive, said: "I think the President's arms plans meet with general approval."

'Rains Came' at Fox on Film List Of Thrillers Booked for the Week

One-Time Tech Grid Man and Former Macon Boy in Cast.

By LEE ROGERS, Motion Picture Editor.

Action lovers and thrill seekers can find plenty of both on any downtown theater screen this week.

Most outstanding of the current attractions is "The Rains Came," a screen version of Louis Bromfield's best seller. The stars are Myrna Loy, George Brent and Tyrone Power. Scenes are in India and the floods and earthquakes are well staged and photographed. The Fox plays it.

An equal number of thrills and a good many more laughs are to be found in "Thunder Afloat," a story of submarines off the United States coast during the last war. Wallace Beery stars, with Chester Morris and Virginia Grey in support. It's at Loew's.

Melvyn Douglas, the Macon boy, is hunting down criminals in his amusing way again at the Rialto. Louise Platt is his leading lady in "Tell No Tales," a story of a newspaperman.

Another actor Georgia might claim, Randolph Scott, appears in a Western shoot 'em down and bury 'em thriller at the Paramount called "Frontier Marshal."

The Capitol opens with a newspaper story, "News Is Made at Night," tomorrow afternoon and the Rhodes has held the excellent "The Women" for a third week in Atlanta.

Fox

"The Rains Came" combines all the elements the vari-tasted moviegoers consider essential—a bitter-sweet romance, brittle dialogue with plenty innuendo, the rushing waters of a spectacular flood and a breath-taking earthquake—but in so doing this Twentieth Century-Fox picture becomes a little tiresome with its length.

Cast in the starring roles in this screen version of Louis Bromfield's novel are Myrna Loy, George Brent and Tyrone Power, but to the character actors go all acting honors.

Maria Ouspenskaya, the little old woman who cussed out Napoleon in "Conquest" and was the lovable grandmother in "Love Affair," commands all scenes in which she appears as the Indian person who maintains her regal poise in a world when women dress like housewives. To her is left the job of directing the rebuilding of her kingdom which is destroyed by the flood that killed her husband—the Rajah.

Joseph Schildkraut, H. B. Warner and Nigel Bruce give good performances. As for the stars, Beery easily out-acts the others. Miss Loy is not convincing as the "bad woman" after we've become so used to her as the "perfect wife" and she seemed a trifle old for a person in a world when women dress like housewives. To her is left the job of directing the rebuilding of her kingdom which is destroyed by the flood that killed her husband—the Rajah.

The city is rebuilt so quickly that you get the impression—quite wrongly—that the working caste of Indian and the American WPA workers have nothing in common. But when you take a look at the magnificence of the buildings the Rajah's wife has built to replace the mud huts you think the must have gotten a WPA subsidy.

Loew's

Rough and tumble Wallace Beery volunteers in the navy in a personal declaration of war against the Kaiser when a German sub sinks his tug boat, Susie H. off New York, in "Thunder Afloat."

And Mr. Beery volunteers out when the navy doesn't give him enough action and after he informs Chester Morris, his old enemy, and current commander, that "I ain't playing on no team on which I ain't the captain."

It is a very timely film with U-b-boat war again in the open, but I hardly think we can hold Manager Eddie Pendicost, of the Grand, responsible for planting those stories in yesterday's papers about German subs being seen off Boston—exactly what his picture is about.

The M.-G.-M. story attempts to depict an invasion of the east coast by a German submarine in the last World War. All the publicity says the story is taken from history and heretofore untold, but at the front of the film is the customary reference that all events and characters referred to are fictitious.

Virginia Grey, looking a little thin in sailor garb, nevertheless adds beauty to the film. Many underwater submarine shots are shown and many exciting moments are provided before Beery gets his chance to fight a submarine his way.

Rialto

Melvyn Douglas is in another crime detecting role but minus the usual competition furnished by Joan Blondell, and her usual dumb wisecracks.

Louise Platt is the heart interest in "Tell No Tales," a M.-G.-M. picture at the Rialto. Instead of being man and wife, though they go through the pose once, working against each other to solve the same crime. Douglas is a newspaper managing editor who is seeking one last story to put his paper to death in a blaze of glory. (The paper had been ordered discontinued.)

Miss Platt is a school teacher who is threatened by a kidnaper gang because she is the only one who can identify them. Douglas gets hold of a ransom note and the fun begins as he tries to run them down, protect the girl and get the paper in to make its last issue a glorious success.

This picture has one thing that is very typical of the newspaper business—even if the rest is not—the school teacher wishes she

WARSAW REFUGEES TO BE SENT HOME

Reich Plans Transportation for 1,250 Foreigners, Including 8 Americans.

KOENIGSBERG, EAST PRUS-

SIA, Germany, Sept. 22.—(AP)—The German foreign office was working tonight to arrange transportation home for about 1,250 foreigners, including eight Americans, brought here from shell-torn Warsaw by automobile or special train.

German officials said 178 of the refugees were members of the foreign diplomatic or consular corps. (Douglas Jenkins Jr., American vice consul in Warsaw, previously had advised the American embassy in Berlin that he and seven other United States citizens were joining the exodus.)

When the supreme army command broadcast an appeal early this week to Warsaw's defenders for a "bloodless" surrender, the only reply from within the city was a request for the safe removal of all foreigners.

The supreme command said in a communique that the foreigners were instructed to send a representative by Wednesday to the Praga-Radzymin road to negotiate for their safe conduct.

"And then by speaking the line at the director's order his day's pay jumps from $11.25 to $25."

'Freshman Snatching' Condemned by S. E. C. College Heads

L. S. U. CHIEFTIAN ADMITS TIGERS ONE OF VICTIMS

Serious Consideration of Practice Is Urged for December Meeting.

By KENNETH GREGORY.
Associated Press Staff Writer.
Strong sentiment for action to curb the "vicious" practice of "freshman snatching" by football rivals developed yesterday among Southeastern conference college presidents.

After lengthy discussion, the conference executive committee called on college presidents of the 13-member athletic group to "seriously consider" the question at the December meeting in New Orleans.

Action by the committee followed introduction of the problem by Dr. James F. Broussard, faculty chairman of athletics at Louisiana State University.

Under present conference rules a freshman may transfer from one school to another without loss of eligibility up to the time he participates in a freshman athletic contest.

"I would like to have this committee take cognizance of a practice now going on and termed by sports writers 'freshman snatching,'" said Dr. Broussard. "We have been a victim. I know it is being practiced and I know it's a vicious thing."

"There has got to be an executive order and a drastic one." "This situation," said Faculty Chairman N. W. Dougherty, of Tennessee, "is not indigenous to this section, but is being practiced the country over. We have come to expect our coaches to win and if we expect them to win they're going to get athletes."

Dr. Wilbur C. Smith, Tulane athletic director, cited futile efforts made in the past and added, "I don't know what we can do about it. I could talk all day and night about it and cite many cases. Other sections are just as bad as we are."

Dr. G. D. Humphrey, of Mississippi State, president of the conference, said the college presidents "can do something about this situation," to which Dr. R. C. Har-

L.S.U. Jinxes Vandy-Tide, Tech Even

(This is another in a series of copyrighted articles and charts on Southeastern Conference football teams.)

By SCOOP KENNEDY.
Big goat for Alabama and Vanderbilt in competition between Southeastern conference teams since 1890 has been the poor little Mountain Tiger—Sewanee.

Vandy has won no less than 36 games from the Purple and White out of 44 played. "Bama took 17 and dropped 10 to the Tiger." The Tide is on the right side of the ledger with every SEC opponent except Auburn with four victories and seven defeats, and Vandy and Georgia Tech with wins and losses exactly even in both instances.

Vandy's only nemesis has been Louisiana State, losing four and winning two from the Bayou Tiger. Tennessee has taken it on the chin from Alabama, Vandy and Georgia, breaking even with Tulane, Auburn and Sewanee.

Louisiana State has permitted four squads to outpoint it in series engagements, Alabama, Tennessee, Georgia Tech and Sewanee. Only Alabama, Vandy and L. S. U. have the advantage over Tulane with Tennessee and Georgia getting even breaks.

Auburn is behind with five teams—Vandy, L. S. U., Tulane, Kentucky and Sewanee. Florida has the edge on only one squad—Sewanee.

Sewanee tops five powerful aggregations—L. S. U., Georgia Tech, Georgia, Auburn and Ole Miss, which should be surprising to some.

Mississippi State, too, is up on five squads—Georgia, Florida, Kentucky, Sewanee and Ole Miss. The Rebels are at the bottom of the heap with a margin on only one team—Florida.

In the traditional rivalry department three of these magnificent series date back to 1892:

MATRON STAKES DRAW TOP FIELD THIS AFTERNOON

Two-Year-Old Fillies Vie at Belmont; Widener Nags To Run.

NEW YORK, Sept. 22.—(P)—The $5,000 Matron Stakes, with 11 two-year-old fillies slated for the six-furlong dash over the main course, and the $7,500 Manhattan Handicap, bringing together ten veterans for a mile and a half test, are the chief attractions at Belmont Park tomorrow.

The Matron, though missing the presence of the highly regarded Now What from Alfred G. Vanderbilt's barn, has attracted such promising young turf misses as George D. Widener's combination of Thorn Apple and Limitation, Mrs. Payne Whitney's Piquet, J. O. Keene's Jeanne d'Arc, William Woodward's Requip and E. R. Bradley's Be Like Mom, back in competition after a long rest.

Among the entries for the Manhattan are Isadore Bieber's South American-bred Conde Rico, which recently set a new mile and five-eighths track record at Aqueduct, and his stablemate, Confido; Townsend B. Martin's Cravat, winner of the Suburban Handicap at the spring meeting; B. F. Whitaker's steady going Sickle T.; Charles S. Howard's Sortado, another South American importation, and William Woodward's Isolator.

Porter's Mite, El Chico Run in Potomac Handicap

HAVE DE GRACE, Md., Sept. 22.—(P)—Eight three-year-olds, topped by W. E. Boeing's Porter's Mite and William Ziegler's El Chico, were named today for the $10,000-added Potomac handicap, mile and sixteenth feature race here tomorrow.

Two eligibles noticeably absent from the list were W. L. Brann's Chaledon, being saved for the Havre De Grace 'cap a week hence, and George D. Widener's Eight-Thirty, suffering a leg injury.

Likely starters in addition to Porter's Mite and El Chico are

LANIER DEFEATS TYPISTS, 20 TO 0

MACON, Ga., Sept. 22.—Lanier High school's orange and green jerseyed Poets blanked the Commercial High Typists of Atlanta, 20 to 0, here tonight before a crowd of 3,000 persons.

Bob Reynolds, a halfback, scored first for the Poets midway of the second period. The flashy halfback drove through center from Commercial's 13 for the score. The Poets launched their drive on Commercial's 27. Eugene Brundage's attempted placement was low.

Touchdown No. 2 for the Poets was tallied by Fullback Earl Dunham in the early part of the fourth period. The Poets took possession of the ball on Commercial's 21 by partially blocking a punt. Dunham tallied on the fourth play. Brundage added the extra point by placement.

Midway the final period LaFayette King, substitute end, scored on a pass from Reynolds. The halfback passed from the 16-yard line to King in the end zone. Brundage kicked the extra point. Commercial made only one threat. The Typists carried the ball to Lanier's 13-yard line near the end of the game and lost it on downs.

Sophs Steal Show In Vol Scrimmage

KNOXVILLE, Tenn., Sept. 22.—(P)—A half-dozen sophomores battling furiously for at least a second-string berth on Tennessee's Volunteers stole the show today as Coach Bob Neyland put the squad through a long defensive and offensive scrimmage.

Tailbacks Johnny Butler, Bunzy O'Neil and Kenneth Bailes, seeking the right to spill George Cafego, reeled off repeated gains. Butler, though, seemed to have the edge, once sparking the second team 40 yards to a touchdown in three plays.

DESPITE WAR.

BERLIN, Sept. 22.—(P)—Carl Diem, secretary of the German Olympic committee, today declared Germany was going ahead with plans for winter Olympic games scheduled for next February at Garmisch-Partenkirchen.

WHAT DOES Skill MEAN IN A BEER?

SKILL in a beer means the mastery, born of study and experience, that takes the raw materials of brewing—the malt, hops, yeast and water—and with them creates a brew that stands out above all the rest for its flavor, its richness, its all 'round goodness.

At the Atlantic Breweries we have not only the skill to make a truly great beer, but—what is just as important—the will. We

BUFFETED RANKS OF KINGFISH RALLY AROUND BROTHER

Old Political Machine, 'Bloody But Unbowed,' Nominates Earl Long to Govern Louisiana.

BATON ROUGE, La., Sept. 22. (AP)—The much-attacked and somewhat disorganized old allies of Huey P. Long, late "Kingfish" of Louisiana politics, closed ranks under fire today and chose his younger brother, Governor Earl K. Long, as the standard-bearer in their bid to retain power next year.

Long's strong old political machine, the Louisiana Democratic Association, in caucus here, chose the 44-year-old interim governor to run for the regular four-year term, subject to the January 16, 1940 Democratic primary, against 10 other candidates, all anti-administration.

Attack on Jones.
Long, who had called the caucus in which no dissenting voice was heard during its rapid-fire 50-minute session, promptly accepted the nomination with an attack upon Sam H. Jones, "reform" candidate running independently to smash what he termed a regime ten times more "corrupt" than that of carpetbagger days.

Long singled out only Jones among the growing list of opponents, giving support to belief the 42-year-old Lake Charles attorney will be his chief opposition four months hence.

Long said Jones was the candidate of the corporation lawyers and the "privileged classes." He promised to abstain from "mudslinging" during the campaign.

Jointly supporting Long is expected to be the old regular organization of New Orleans, another powerful group which has cooperated with Huey Long's organization in recent years.

Maestri Backs Long.
Mayor Robert S. Maestri, of New Orleans, remained at home today, but had previously repeatedly said he would back the caucus candidate, and that he supported Earl Long. He dominates both groups.

Among the nine other candidates, now nightly attacking Long and each other, are State Senator and Former Governor James A. Noe and State Treasurer A. P. Tugwell, both old Huey Long stalwarts, now in the opposition.

STATE GUARD STILL BELOW WAR RATING

President's Recruit Quota Leaves Gaps in Ranks, Stoddard Reports.

General J. E. Stoddard, adjutant general of Georgia announced yesterday that allocation by the War Department of 1,161 additional national guardsmen to the state will not bring any of the militia units to war strength.

Georgia's 78 militia companies, including 3,901 men, have been on a bare maintenance strength and the increase will not even bring all of them to normal peace-time strength, he said.

The allocation to Georgia was included in the 40,791-man national guard increase ordered by President Roosevelt in proclaiming a national emergency.

Secretary Woodring, in announcing the allocations, emphasized the fact that the enlisted strength of the guard may be increased at the discretion of the Governors of the respective states to a total of 235,000.

The number of men the respective companies in Georgia will be allowed to enlist to take up the increased allotment will be announced later, General Stoddard stated.

New Plymouth Has 'Eye Appeal' With 'Luxury Ride'

The stronger "eye appeal" evident in this model of the 1940 Plymouth automobile is one of the main features in the new car to be announced this week. Erected on a larger wheelbase, with increased inside room, the new Plymouth has incorporated bold styles with a new kind of "luxury ride" which draws interest of motorists.

PLYMOUTH OFFERS NEW 'LUXURY RIDE'

1940 Models, To Be Shown This Week, Features Many Improvements.

Completely new from bumper to bumper, the 1940 Plymouth, featuring increased size and the "luxury ride," will be presented to Atlanta motorists this week.

The new models, built on a 117-inch wheelbase and designed to give an additional 12 cubic feet inside and a 17-square-foot increase overall, display a modern styling accentuated by chrome treatment of grill and catwalk louvers.

A complete redistribution of weight, wider vision through safety glass, improved steering post gearshift now standard on the low-priced "Roadking," a floating power engine with new transmission, and a quicker clutch to facilitate shifting, all are features composing the "luxury ride."

Long Frame Set Low.
This year's longer and heavier frame is set low on the chassis, flaring outward at the bottom. All styles, for the first time, come with or without running boards. If desired they can be replaced by fender guards and chrome moulding.

Stylistically the lines curve to include the new, massive fenders and radiator shell and merge into the hood. This year's grille is more nearly solid. Larger ventilating sections are included in the lower grilles.

The "sealed beam" headlamps, designed to give 60 per cent more light and larger windows which eliminate many of the old "blind spots" are features aimed at increased safety.

Weight Redistributed.
In the redistribution of weight the engine was moved forward four inches from the wheels, while the rear axle was retracted seven inches. Thus the rear seat is closer to the center of the car, eliminating much of the motion caused by road irregularities.

Improvements in engine and brakes make for longer life of the new Plymouth. The body is cushioned into the chassis on live rubber mountings to eliminate slight shocks. Faster shifting without "clash" has been worked into the gear transmission. Better leverage and smoother operation are included in the gear-post improvements.

U.S.-SOUTH AMERICA TRADE SHOWS GAIN

Upturn in Banking, Exporting Transportation Reported Due to War.

NEW YORK, Sept. 22.—(AP)—Rapid developments in United States trade with South America because of the European war was reported today from various commercial sources.

Banking, transportation, exporting and manufacturing authorities all reported an upturn of southern business within recent days.

Bankers said inquiries and orders for financing of South American exports and imports had increased largely since war forced European competitors out of the southern continent.

Pan-American Airways announced boosts of 70 to 75 per cent over September, 1938, in the volume of passengers, mails and freight carried both ways between the United States and South America.

American Express Company announced the establishment of a chain of 17 offices in South America to care for the North American trade requirements of southern republics' buyers.

Bankers said coal and steel orders were beginning to come in to the North American market, especially from Argentina, Brazil, Colombia, Venezuela and Peru.

Books in braille are being sold in England for 10 cents each, which is below cost price.

Councilman's Black Eye Costs Puncher $12 Fine

A lifelong friendship between Councilman John T. Marler, chairman of city council's board of firemasters, and Morris Dobbs, engineer, bumped up against the law yesterday in John L. Cone's division of the recorder's court.

Dobbs paid a $12 fine after he pleaded guilty to "losing my head" in an argument with Marler and delivering the councilman a beautiful shiner (left eye only).

Glasses Reported Broken.
Marler's glasses were broken in the one-blow battle, and he appeared yesterday demanding that a "gentleman be given some protection" and asserting "I feel I have been grossly mistreated."

The melee took place in front of Marler's barber shop at Cascade avenue and Gordon road, according to testimony. It was a short-lived and an effective engagement with Marler's official eye bearing the brunt of one well-aimed punch.

Police officers, called at Marler's request, descended on the active western front, nabbed their man, booked the case, and yesterday declined to testify, saying it was a reported case.

Argue Over Project.
Marler and Dobbs told the court they had an argument over whether or not the councilmanic delegation was powerless to stop a negro housing development in the West End section of the city.

Said Dobbs: "I quoted Mr. Marler to the effect that there was nothing a councilman could do about the matter, and I have witnesses to prove he said it. He said 'it was a lie,' and then said I was a 'liar.' I hit him then."

Marler said: "Mr. Dobbs made the statement that every damned councilman knew of the proposed development and did nothing to stop it. I said it was a lie, and got hit."

Both Marler and Dobbs marched into the police court flanked by able seconds in the form of attorneys.

Easy Menus Solve Troublesome Problem of Saturday Lunches

For Noon Meal Serve Salad, Frankfurters

By SALLY SAVER.

Saturday lunches are a troublesome problem for many housewives, especially if there are children to be fed. Saturday is a busy day, what with shopping to do, plans for the week end to be made and members of the family who are at school on other days right under foot and expecting to eat at home at lunch time.

Something quick and easy is the imperative need, and frankfurters are suggested to fill that need. Juicy frankfurters with potato salad, hot or cold, are quite filling and they are well liked by everyone. Children like them particularly, and often frankfurters for lunch can be held out as a reward to get young son to rake the leaves or to sweep out the basement on Saturday morning. Ever try it? It was worked on me in childhood.

Another suggestion is to allow the children to cook their Saturday lunch in the backyard, spearing frankfurters on forks or sharp sticks and roasting them over the outdoors' fire.

Frankfurters nowadays come in different sizes, varying from the small ones we knew in school days to the large fat ones which are so very juicy and tasty. Some frankfurters still come in natural casings, while others are completely skinless. Some large ones, I am told, are dipped in pineapple juice before they are smoked. Enzymes in the pineapple juice make the casings tender. No doubt you have your favorite frankfurter recipe, but here are suggestions which you might like too:

Scalloped Potatoes and Frankfurters.
Cut raw potatoes into thin slices and put into a buttered baking dish. Place layer of thinly sliced frankfurters over them. Repeat until dish is filled. Season with salt and pepper, barely cover with milk, dot with margarine and bake in moderate oven about 40 minutes. Cover dish for first half hour then uncover for browning.

Deviled Frankfurters.
In a large iron skillet make a sauce of the following ingredients: Melt 1/4 pound butter or margarine, stir into it 1 1/2 teaspoons mustard, 1/4 teaspoon red pepper, 1/2 teaspoon black pepper and 1/4 teaspoon salt. Add vinegar until the sauce is tart enough to suit the taste. Saute franks in the sauce turning often. When they have become a reddish golden brown remove to a hot platter and serve.

Greatest Need For Dentistry Is Teen Age

By Dr. William Brady.

The health authorities in England have found that the time of greatest need for calcium and vitamin D is not infancy and early childhood, as has been assumed in this country, but rather the 'teens'—age 8 to 18 years. This was determined by careful studies and research surveys of school children of both the poor and well-to-do classes, over a period of many years.

Cachexia Americana, I call the physical and functional weakness of the child of that age who fails to get his or her proper ration of calcium and vitamin D.

Incidentally it is in the 'teens' that the greatest need for dentistry occurs. Although routine dental treatment, such as annual or better semi-annual cleaning, inspection, scaling, polishing and filling of any cavities the dentist discovers, is the least costly prophylaxis or conservation of the teeth, only a small minority of children in this country enjoy the advantage of such treatment in this country—not because their parents cannot afford necessary treatment but because they have not yet been educated sufficiently. Perhaps the glib American parents are influenced too by the false teachings of toothbrush and dentifrice vendors.

A child cuts his first permanent tooth, the "six-year molar" at the age of five to seven years—or rather four first molars, one on each side of upper and lower jaws. The "six-year molars" come in behind the temporary bicusps. The crowns of all of the baby or temporary teeth and the cusps of the first permanent teeth (six-year molars) are already formed and present under the gums when the baby is born, so it is obvious that the nutrition of the mother during pregnancy must determine the soundness of the teeth the baby will have. But later in childhood, as the other permanent teeth come in, up to and including the age of 17 to 25 years when the third molars, last to be cut, commonly called the "wisdom teeth" appear—if they are going to appear—nearly half of all adults remain forever without one to all four permanent teeth—the nutrition of the growing child or youth has great influence upon the character of the teeth.

Think of this when you hear health advisers urging that every growing child should consume at least a quart of milk a day. Think of it also when health advisers urge that everybody eat plenty of cheese, eggs, greens, peas, beans, fresh fruits, plain wheat and other whole grains, fresh butter, cream, dairy products or dishes containing them.

Shirley Temple Is Too Old For Goody-Goody Roles

By Sheila Graham.

HOLLYWOOD, Sept. 22.—"Rebecca." . . . Laurence Olivier is made up to look 40 years old. His hair at the sides is powdered white. He looks depressed. "It is hard to act when you think of what is going on in Europe," he tells me—adding, "Whether I am called to the colors or not, I shall join up when this picture is finished."

The scene is where Olivier is bringing home his bride—Joan Fontaine—and introducing her to Housekeeper Judith Anderson in the stately hall of Manderlay. Outside, it is raining. Inside, Director Alfred Hitchcock has created a sinister atmosphere—aided by a couple of men with smoke-cans. The plump Mr. Hitchcock is less gloomy than his leading man. He calls the extras "gentlemen," which has never happened to them before. He tells me there is no truth in the rumor he is returning to England to act as an observation balloon. "But, if there is anything I can do here for England—I'll do it. I think I'll be a spy," he concludes gravely. "I've already ordered a hat with the initials 'S. P. Y.'"

Before leaving the set, Leading Lady Joan Fontaine tells me, "I'm so happy, I can't believe it's real. I've got everything in the world I want—all the money I want, all the fame I want. Life is so wonderful!" The only cloud on Miss Fontaine's bliss is the prospect of new-husband Brian Aherne's recall to England. "But if he goes, I'll go with him," declares Joan. "My marriage is more important to me than my work. I think she means it."

Meet the new Shirley Temple. She is four feet, eight inches tall—a gain of one and a half inches since her last picture. She has lost a lot of weight. And her hair is being photographed (so far) in its natural color—dark brown. ("She's going to have black hair, like me," says her mother.)

Mrs. Temple is not as happy as usual. "The Bluebird" was to have been a $2,000,000 epic—but they've cut so many of the scenes and players, it won't cost a million now," says Mrs. Temple mournfully. Also, worrying the mother of box-office attraction No. 1 is the future film career of her moppet.

"It's time Shirley stopped being a goody-goody on the screen," says Mrs. Temple. "I get hundreds of letters asking me why Shirley does not get better movies. People are tired of seeing her act cute in costume pictures. If she is to continue in the first rank of stars, the studio must take more trouble in finding suitable roles for her. Her next picture should be modern. I'd like her to be in a mystery picture, or in something with a psychological slant. She is too old for cowboy and Indian stuff."

The subject of Mrs. Temple's complaint is swinging on the camera boom with Co-Star Johnny Russell—aged 6. Johnny is disarming the European situation. "I don't like him," he says—referring to Hitler. "He can't make people try." Out of the mouths of babes—

Fashion Decrees Gold-Finished Knives, Forks
By Elizabeth MacRae Boykin.

Sunday.—An old apple tree dips pleasantly over our side porch where we have supper these most lovely evenings. Its laden boughs make us feel very primitive and earthy—despite the traffic light on our corner.

Monday.—"I like to let the rafters ring," said a friend of ours who is an ardent collector of symphony records and likes to play them at full blast. And she's something to the idea. I decided on hearing him play his phonograph loud. For that's when you really get the full fine grandeur of symphony records.

Tuesday.—There's really only one thing wrong with my bedroom now—and that's a fine point of horticulture—the floral designs of the chintz includes peonies and asters in the same bouquet. Botanically that bothers me, because in my garden they're over a month apart. I'm pleased with the room decoratively—for it's all in quiet shades of grey-blue, even the rug, the stripe of the wall paper and the ground tone of the chintz.

Wednesday.—To a luncheon where the table was set with gold-finished knives and forks—the same kind as were used at the White House dinner for the King and Queen. They're going to be the fashion for formal tables, for they're handsome to look at and won't tarnish or stain. Not too, too expensive either, since "all is not gold that glitters."

Thursday.—The new ideal in lighting is daylight 24 hours a day. That means that there'll be more and more fluorescent lighting concealed to give an effect of daylight indoors even at night. This will be achieved by newly perfected units that even discharge ultraviolet radiation with a minimum of heat.

Friday.—Sometimes I think that an old-fashioned mixed bouquet is the prettiest kind of all—with all the garden colors mixed together as they come. Especially is this idea nice in small nosegays for a tea table, a night table or a dressing table—pinks, ageratum, snapdragon and scabiosa, for instance.

Saturday.—When I want to get a line on what the average home will be wearing year after next, I snoop around among my interior decorator friends to see what they are doing in very la-de-da homes this fall. And I've discovered that they're turning once more toward dark broadloom (such as brown and burgundy), that yellows are tops and whites are practically out, that grey is important and textures for the floor don't rate with them but that they're using more and more floral rugs.

As they reach the chancel, ushers and bridesmaids divide, those on the right go to the right of the chancel, those on the left to the left. Bridesmaids stand in front of the ushers—all facing the altar. At the reception, who stands first in the receiving line? The bride's mother, as hostess. Or bride and groom receive alone. Who gets the first slice of wedding cake? The bride—and she shares it with the groom. When do bride and groom leave the reception? They stay as long as their plans permit. ## Determined Farm Boy Achieved Success

By Caroline Chatfield.

More than half century ago there was a little family living in the deep country of a southern state. After a very long illness the mother passed away leaving a family of small children. The father made a manful effort to be mother and father to them and then married again. His wife, a kind and generous woman, persuaded her husband that whatever sacrifices were necessary they must send the daughters out of the country to town. And so the girls went off to boarding school while the two sons stayed at home to help the father on the farm.

The girls took to education like ducks to water and in a few years one married well and the other secured a teaching position. During the Christmas holidays when they were all at home the teacher sister went for a walk with her younger brother and said to him: "James are you going to wear those rough boots and spend your life here on the farm?"

The boy was silent but the seed had fallen in fertile soil and the next spring he took his small savings and went to a business college. In a few short years he was climbing the ladder of success, on his way to owning a big business. Smart, thrifty and determined to get ahead, he became a very rich man, contributed liberally to the comfort of his parents, his sisters and brother, during his life, and when he died he left a sizable fortune to favorite philanthropies as well as to his heirs.

He often said that the pathos in his sister's voice when she looked at his rough boots and the shine in her eyes when she spoke of the fuller, freer life beyond the confines of the farm, were hot sparks that set off his ambition like a firecracker.

Here's what the educated mother can do for her children: Apply the hot sparks that touch off the powder that is in youth. It is the mothers of men (or the sisters) that should see the stars and lift the heads of the young ploughmen to look up and hitch their wagons to stars.

Somebody has to stay down on the farm. Somebody has to plough and sow and reap and plough again. But it is one thing to have head, heart, hands and feet in the soil and another to plough and look up. Children of farm families who are getting out, learning new and scientific methods of farming, going back to plough in their knowledge and reap bigger, better crops, these youths are holding up America and the future of our country depends as much on them as on the youngsters who are choosing industrial and professional fields for their future life's work.

Wake up, farm mothers, there's hope, opportunity even in the deepest, loneliest country.

MY DAY Viewing New Styles With 10,000 Women

By Eleanor Roosevelt.

CARBONDALE, Ill.—Let me tell you first, today, about the end of my day in St. Paul, Minn. It was thrilling, chiefly because I saw a united group of women in action. Ten thousand, five hundred women filled the auditorium in the afternoon to look at a supper style show put on by Mrs. June Hamilton Rhodes, of New York City. Women are traditionally interested in styles. But this had an object. The women of St. Paul were showing what their own shops could produce and helping to stimulate shopping at home and the development of industry in St. Paul.

Another side of their program contemplates bringing a variety of artistic and educational events to St. Paul. But on the first evening they centered their program around the third objective for which they are working—namely, an organization of women which will cover every block in the city and develop a program of city improvement.

Twelve thousand persons attended this evening session and you could not help but be inspired by the idea that these women were banded together in such numbers to influence the development of their city. The test, of course, is how well the effort is sustained and carried through. If it can live without political differences or personal jealousies creeping in, we may see a movement which could spread throughout the United States and accomplish wonderful things for all communities, rural as well as urban.

The eyes of the women of this country should be focused on St. Paul for the next few months, to watch the achievement of this pioneer band.

Now for a word about the fashion show, for I am fairly sure that this is my one and only style show for the year. The greens which were shown in many day and sports clothes are very soft and becoming in shade and are frequently combined with brown.

In one case, however, a light blue sweater and every combination for day or for evening wear, has somewhere a touch of red. Your gloves can be red, or you may have a red feather in your hat or red piping on your suit. No color seems to be quite complete without that touch and I heard the women behind me say that the red accessories would be sold out in every St. Paul shop by the next day.

Those of us who have old-fashioned gold or silver jewelry which belonged to our grandmothers can bring it out and have it cleaned and put in order. It is all the fashion this year—because you can't be too much decorated.

One lady who called on me at the hotel wore her grandmother's silk dress, with lace fichu and a handkerchief edged with real lace, acquired in Europe somewhere around the 1850's and a ring which dated back to the Civil War. Worn as an evening dress, it would be entirely appropriate today.

Now we are on a train bound for Carbondale, Ill., and in a few minutes we hope to listen to the President addressing a special session of congress.

Shortest Cut to Slimness Is to Eat Fewer Calories

By Ida Jean Kain.

There is no such phenomenon as a woman without curiosity . . . and a woman on a reducing diet is about twice as curious as ordinarily. She just can't help wondering whether, in this age of miracles, there isn't some method by which reducing is made a little easier.

Take those baths: Turkish, steam, cabinet. Some people do take them and lose! But the whole thing is a snare and a delusion. What they lose is water—not fat—and that only temporarily. This apparent weight loss is accomplished by the simple expedient of sweating and sweating is not the same thing as reducing.

Fat does not break down to form water, and even though you lose several pounds of water your weight will shortly be right back where it was unless you break down the fat. This process is also simple and it is invariably the same. It requires only that you eat fewer calories (units of heat, or energy) than you need, so that you convert your stored fat into energy. That's all there is to that.

But to get back to some of these more novel methods of reducing fat. Every now and then someone trots out the de of exercising in a rubber or woolen garment to reduce. Again the weight loss depends mainly on the sweating.

True, you might exercise enough to use up a few extra calories, but the amount would be negligible in comparison with the discomfort.

Some of the most engaging ideas involve tossing something into the bath water. This is usually warranted to make the fat dissolve and disappear down the drain. You almost expect to emerge from your bath slim!

One of the recurrent questions is whether the use of strong cathartics will aid the weight loss. This is merely another method of drawing the water from the body. Such measures rush the food out of the system before the body has had a chance to assimilate the elements its needs. A precarious method this, for reducing! Anyone who tries it is likely to discover that it is much easier to upset the digestive system than to set it to running smoothly again.

Thyroid extract to stimulate activity of the thyroid gland is very beneficial in the few cases of glandular obesity of this type. But less than 5 per cent of all the people who are overweight can blame their trouble on their glands! So it is unlikely that anything is wrong with yours. If you think there is, see your doctor. Don't experiment with drugs to run the risk of wrecking your health. That applies to reducing drugs of any kind.

Of all the reducing aids, massage is the most helpful. It tones the skin and is excellent for relaxing. It even helps to redistribute your weight! But it is no substitute for exercise. You must exercise for the strong muscles that makes streamlines.

Whenever you are tempted to lend an ear to the promises of some easy method of reducing, remember that fat doesn't evaporate. Nor can it be rubbed off, steamed off, or melted off. It has to be broken down for energy, and that means a lessening of the calorie intake below the amount needed for energy.

Send for your copy of the "Twenty-One Days to a Slimmer Now to cut down on the calories. You can be beautifully slim again—all you have to do is control calories. Write to Ida Jean Kain for the diet, in care of The Atlanta Constitution, enclosing a stamped return envelope.

Woman's Quiz

Q. Is there any way to cook frankfurters except boiling or frying?

A. An excellent picnic or supper dish may be made by rolling frankfurters in pastry and baking in a hot oven, like tarts. A medium-sharp cheese may be grated over the pastry before placing the frankfurter on it. Seal the dough by moistening the edges and pressing together.

Q. How can fingernail polish be removed from a dress?

A. To cotton apply the following mixture: Two ounces of any acetate (banana oil), one ounce benzol and one-half ounce denatured alcohol to which a few drops of ammonia has been added. This mixture will dissolve celanese, therefore one must be sure of the material before applying the mixture. We know of no method of removing the polish from celanese materials.

Have you a household problem to solve? Write your question clearly, sign your name and address, enclose a three-cent postage stamp and mail to the Woman's Editor of The Constitution, Washington Service Bureau, 1913 13th street, Washington, D. C. for a reply. Three of the most interesting answers will be printed here daily. Don't telephone; write as directed.

Defense of East, West Must Be Overcome

By Harold Sharpsteen.

Spades are trump. South leads and must win all six tricks against any defense offered by East and West.

Your partner opens the bidding one notrump, second hand passing. What is your response, holding:
(1) S—J 8 5 D—10 9 4 H—Q 7 4 2 C—Q 6 5 4 Your answer . . .
(2) S—J 8 5 D—J 9 H—Q J 4 2 C—Q 10 4 3 Your answer . . .

(Double-Dummy Problem.)

South plays the diamond ace and north the 10. South leads the heart 2, trumped by North's spade king. North plays the spade ace, East discards the club 3, South the club 4 and West the heart 9.

If West, instead, discards a club, both of North's clubs will be good. If West discards a diamond, North will cash the club queen and then lead diamonds through East 8-5 and win two tricks with South's queen-six.

North leads the club queen next and east is forced to discard a diamond or a heart. If East discards a diamond, South makes diamonds good. If East discards the heart jack, South can discard the small diamond and win the last two tricks with the diamond, Queen and heart 6.

(1) Pass, holding less than one honor-trick plus and no five-card or longer suit to take out in.
(2) Raise to two notrump. Even though you are supposed to hold one plus honor-tricks in at least three suits, a shaded raise is permissible, not vulnerable, on slightly less, with all suits stopped. Till tomorrow . . .

Garden Center Shows Fall Arrangements.

An attractive exhibit at the Garden Center recently was a cocktail table decorated by Mrs. Devereux Lippitt. The central copper basket held a spraying arrangement of orange pyracantha, the color repeated in the orange patterned china. A copper tray, colorful glasses and a pair of cocktail glasses completed this Iris Garden Club entry.

Druid Hills Garden Club suggests for September arrangements—a major in shrubs, with foliage accented with flower, fruit or berry of shrubs. Mrs. Charles Le Roux combined Burford holly and variegated aucuba, with fruit of the flowering quince to give the necessary accent.

For the Mayflower Garden Club, Mrs. Knox Walker did a line arrangement of three old rose dahlias in a blue urn with narrow mouth. Roses and asters were grouped in other smaller containers.

A mixed bouquet of pastel flowers in a shallow bowl centered the mantel arrangement of Mrs. Sam G. Cole for the East Lake Garden Club. A yellow jar of unglazed pottery was filled with marigolds of varying shades of yellow, while a pedestal bowl was selected to hold red and yellow pom-pom zinnias.

A Rex begonia in full flower was displayed by the Boulevard Park garden division, represented by Mesdames W. M. Wender and F. A. Oglesby. An unusual color scheme was exhibited of red and pink dahlias in a modernistic container and Dixie Sunshine marigolds in a green vase.

Other flowers brought to the Garden Center include dahlias from the garden of Mrs. J. W. Bedell, a bouquet of Hemerocallis grown by Mrs. Charles R. Hartfield and Nerine or Guernsey lilies and butterfly lilies from S. B. Naff, member of the Meris Garden Club.

Enrollments by University Outnumber Accommodations

The units of the University System of Georgia have so many students they don't know what to do about beds.

From all registrars yesterday were coming letters seeking advice. Enrollments were high. In some cases registrations had been accepted and then it was found there was no room.

Such was the case of the Abraham Baldwin Agricultural College at Tifton whose registrar sent the regent the following telegram: "We have filled every available place and have 44 students who have paid their reservation fee who have no place to sleep. We are turning away many old and new students. Can you offer any suggestions?"

The suggestions were to try to find them quarters in private homes.

The school is a junior college operated to train young farmers. Georgia Tech also reported many students had been turned away because of lack of facilities.

It's 'Last Rays Of Summer' In Sunshine Today

'Tis the last day of summer if you go by the almanac, the United States Weather Bureau reminded Atlantans last night.

The sun crosses the equator, southbound, at 5:50 o'clock this afternoon, Atlanta time, but weatherwise Atlantans expect a few more weeks of warm weather yet. Today, the bureau has forecast, will be partly cloudy, with temperatures ranging up to a mid-summer 82.

The average date of the first killing frost which rings down the curtain on summer for a lot of people is November 8 in these climes. The earliest a hard frost has been felt here is October 11, back in 1906.

ANTI-HITLER REVOLT
DECLARED UNLIKELYEmory Educator Discounts
Chances of Uprising
Within Germany.

Special to THE CONSTITUTION.
GRiffin, Ga., Sept. 22.—Possibility of a revolt by the German people against Adolf Hitler at any time soon appears extremely remote, Dr. Lewis W. Beck told members of the Griffin Rotary Club.

Dr. Beck, a former Grifflin who spent 1937 studying at the University of Berlin, is now a member of the faculty at Emory University in Atlanta.

Although there are secret forces working in Germany to overthrow Hitler's Nazi government, an actual revolt probably will not be undertaken, Dr. Beck asserted, unless British propaganda in the current war has a powerful effect upon the German people and unless that nation's economic situation during the course of the war becomes so acute as to warrant an uprising.

Dr. Beck pointed out there is little likelihood of any uprising by Hitler's own troops, because of the effect of the Nazi leader's propaganda upon them in the past few years. Any uprising, he said he believed, would come from the middle-aged and older classes of people who vividly recall the World War.

LEGION DRUM CORPS
WILL GO TO CHICAGOLaGrange Juniors To March
Second in Parade.

LAGRANGE, Ga., Sept. 22.—The Junior Drum and Bugle Corps of the Baxter L. Schaub post, American Legion, five times winner of state honors in as many years of competition, will leave tomorrow for Chicago to represent Georgia Monday in the nation-wide competition at the national Legion convention.

The Georgia champions have been designated to march second in line.

Vannie R. Sanders is musical director, Albert Brooks is senior Legion committee man and military drill director, Mark Harris Jr., is drum major, and Miss Albert Brooks is sponsor. Forty-seven Junior Legionnaires comprise the unit.

DESTROYER FINDS
DISABLED PLANECrew Uninjured in Forced Landing at Sea.

NORFOLK, Va., Sept. 22.—(AP) Officials at the Hampton Roads naval air station reported this afternoon the destroyer Barry had reached the navy seaplane 53-P4, forced down 25 miles off Cape Henry, and was towing the disabled plane to Hampton Roads.

The destroyer reported members of the plane's crew were uninjured.

As the plane landed on a comparatively smooth sea Mackay radio picked up the following wireless message:

"120 degrees from Cape Henry light. Forced down. 4:23 p. m. standard time."

Officials said the plane ordinarily carried seven men but they did not know how many were aboard.

BUSINESS NEEDS VOICE,
SAYS SALES EXECUTIVE

MEMPHIS, Tenn., Sept. 22.—(AP) A sales expert advised business today to "speak up in its own defense."

"Labor has a voice today. Politics has a voice, but business hasn't much of a say and when it does speak it is discredited," asserted Arthur W. Ramsdell, of New York, president of the National Federation of Sales Executives. He spoke at a "sales clinic" here.

TARZAN—By Edgar Rice Burroughs

WATCHING FROM A CABIN WINDOW, MARIKA WAS THRILLED BY THE EX-PLOITS OF THE NEAR-NAKED GIANT.
